$3,000,000 TO DEVELOP WATERSHED IS PROMISE

Larger Supply for East Bay Cities Included in the Reorganization Plans of Company

FINANCIAL SCHEME BEFORE COMMISSION

Exchange of New Bonds and Stocks for Old, Is the Basis of Changes of Its Rehabilitation

With the formal submission today to the State Railroad Commission of the new plan for the reorganization of the Peoples Water Company of Oakland, an announcement was made that should the arrangement be approved between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 would immediately be spent in developing a water supply for the east bay cities. In all, some $3,000,000 will be expended in making available a large additional amount of water either in the upper San Leandro watershed or in the San Pablo region.

Announcement of these improvements was made by John S. Drum, of the reorganization committee, who was called to testify regarding the plan which will result, if approved, in the formation of the new corporation to take over the Peoples Water Company, which is well known as the East Bay Water Company.

GREAT INTEREST SHOWN.

Commissioner Edwin O. Edgerton and Bond Expert Paul Sinsheimer were much concerned regarding the feasibility of the new plan as compared with the one submitted last summer, which did not meet with the approval of all of the interests affected.

The failure of several of the groups of interested parties to obtain voting power on the board of directors under the old scheme was one of the reasons stockholders were not to be protected by bonds, were the chief factors in the overthrowing of that scheme and the submission of the new plan now before the commission. By the terms of the new plan, the stockholders of $14,100,000, fixed by the commission as the value of the property, while believed to be too low by members of the several committees, is mentioned as the price for which municipal ownership may purchase the properties at any time prior to January 1, 1917.

BASIS OF EXCHANGE.

The owners of underlying bonds will receive first mortgage bonds of the new company at 5 1/2 per cent. Instead of 6 per cent, and will also receive in cash 5 per cent unpaid interest to January 1, 1915, and 5 1/2 per cent to January 1, 1916. Holders of Peoples Water Company notes secured by a pledge of $6,000,000 of treasury bonds will receive first mortgage bonds of the new company, par for par.

Owners of Peoples Water Company bonds amounting to $7,400,000 will receive first mortgage bonds of the new company at 5 1/2 per cent. DIVIDENDS "DELAYED."

The common stock amounting to $600,000 is likely to earn no dividends for some time.

"There is ground for a great deal of hope, however," explained Drum, "that with the increase of the value"

REGISTER PARTY AFFILIATION

The State Supreme Court has decided that election officials must register party affiliation of voters where the voters desire it.

Register at once and register your party affiliation.

A referendum election is to be invoked to repeal the acts of the special session of the legislature designed and passed to defeat the will of the people on the subject of non-partisanship. If you would participate in this referendum and act as an individual legislator shall not be ignored, register now, and compel the County Clerk properly to record your party affiliation.

Jitney Men Dodge City Ordinance

'Pleasure Club' Cars Run on Schedule

Oakland Pleasure Club automobiles invaded the prohibited district today and operate as jitneys despite the law which went into effect last night. The matter was immediately taken up by Chief of Police Woods with the city attorney's office. It has not been decided what action can be taken as yet. Woods delegated Captain Lynch and Corporal Fahy, head of the traffic bureau, to investigate the situation.

Applications were made to the city council today by 19 jitney men for routes outside the safety zone. The applications were granted. About a dozen more were made today and will be passed upon by the council tomorrow.

"Our pleasure cars are running according to schedule," said Mrs. R. C. Young, a director in the club. "I believe this will be a solution to the situation."

"This is probably a scheme to evade the law," said Chief of Police Woods, "but it may be within the law. It is up to the city attorney to decide what we shall do."

AUDITORIUM TO BE ICE SKATING RINK

City Council Authorizes Rental of Arena for Five Years.

Conversion of the arena of the Municipal Auditorium into the largest ice-skating rink in America was made possible today by a resolution adopted by the city council authorizing the city to rent the arena for five years to enter into contract for five years for the five winter months in each year with John P. Cook, secretary of the Oakland Baseball Association and former county clerk.

The city will receive $150 a month, or a total of $1,800 under the contract.

Conversion of the arena of the Municipal Auditorium into the largest ice-skating rink in America was made possible today by a resolution adopted by the city council authorizing the city to rent the arena for five years to enter into contract for five years for the five winter months in each year with John P. Cook, secretary of the Oakland Baseball Association and former county clerk.

The city will receive $150 a month, or a total of $1,800 under the contract.

Cook plans to install a $50,000 plant at the Auditorium, according to his announcement today. He is backed by a group of Oakland capitalists whose names he was not willing to disclose. Work on the construction of a skating rink at the Auditorium will begin in the fall of this year, and the rink will be in operation the last of November. Cook is planning to bring West a corps of teachers to give instructions in ice skating, and believe that the rink will become a craze in the Bay region, as it has in the East. He is also planning to bring a large number of professional skaters.

CONVENTIONS MADE FEW.

The conversion of the Auditorium arena into an ice skating rink for five months in the year means the abandonment of a great convention hall. Commissioner Anderson said today that as a bringer-in of revenue or a real assembly place for the people the Auditorium arena had been "a huge joke." He said that the plan to make it the largest ice skating rink in the United States would mean the loss of the best advertising medium Oakland could possibly receive.

"In January the Auditorium arena was rented twice, the total revenue being $175. In February two attractions are booked, both being free," said Anderson. "The Standard" and "concerts have not drawn a large enough crowd to fill even the theatre portion, let alone the arena. The place was built for conventions, but in 1915, the year of the exposition, we had one convention for which the arena was used, that being the National Educational Association. All the other conventions used smaller halls in the Auditorium. As for dancing, that can be arranged during the other seven months of the year."

RINK WILL BE LARGE.

The ice skating rink will be 120 by 250 feet. Eight and a half miles of pipe will be used in the ice and on the floor. It will be operated from November 1 to March 31 of each fiscal year up to 1921, under the terms of the contract, which provides a $5000-bond for the return of the floor each year in good condition to the city.

Antics of Storm Cause of Interest

With storm warnings displayed along the coast to appraise shipping of possible danger from heavy wind, officials of the United States Weather Bureau are watching with interest to follow the antics of a storm which curved out to sea after hanging over the coast for several days.

Whether it will come back to the southward causing heavy wind and rain in this section is problematical.

Showers are falling as far south as the Upper San Joaquin valley, but the precipitation has been light everywhere in this state, averaging about a quarter of an inch.

The prospects are for unsettled conditions today and tomorrow.

Recognition in Mexico

Joke, Attorney Says

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—"President Wilson put over a delicious bit of humor in recognizing Carranza and the Carranza faction in Mexico," the statement, unexplained further, was made by an attorney for Jacinto Luengo and R. Arribas, Mexicans under arrest by the federal authorities for having Carranza money and the molds for making it in their possession.

They appeared before Federal Judge Dooling today for arraignment and will be tried next Tuesday.

AUTHOR HELD FOR DARING BANDIT ACT

Police Sergt. Wounded, But Holds Suspected Man

Magazine Writer Head of Jewelry Robbery, Is Asserted

The sensational jewelry store window robbery at Eleventh street and Broadway last night in which Sergeant Herbert J. Thornbury was shot and seriously wounded was planned and executed by a former newspaperman and magazine writer, according to Captain of Inspectors W. J. Petersen, who has interviewed the man captured by Thornbury. The prisoner, who was the leader of the trio in the attempt to loot the windows of $35,000 in diamonds, gave the name of Jack Savage. The police say this is a fictitious name, but they are not sure they have the right name of their prisoner.

Thornbury was reported to be out of danger today by his physician. The bullet entered the left side of his chest and ripped across to the right side, but without penetrating the lungs. He has every chance of recovery.

BANDITS IN AUTOS.

The attempted robbery, the most spectacular that has been tried here for several years, was staged in front of a crowd of 100 people at Eleventh street and Broadway shortly before 7 o'clock last night. The three men drove up in an automobile and the leader hurled two bricks, wrapped in newspapers, through the window of the Barney Jacobs' jewelry store. Reaching through the broken glass, his hands guarded by heavy gloves, he lifted two trays of diamonds and several large stones in small cases from the window and started to run for the automobile.

Sergeant Thornbury was in Broadway and heard the crash of glass. He ran to the corner and leaped upon the robber's back, causing him to drop several of the diamonds.

A struggle ensued, in which two shots were fired, one by Savage and one from the automobile by one of the robber's accomplices. Thornbury believes he was shot by the man with whom he was struggling, and this

NEW COMMANDER IS DIRECTING TURK ARMY

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 3.—Field Marshal Liman von Sanders has been appointed commander-in-chief of the Turkish forces in Caucasian front. He was commander of the First Turkish army and directed the fortification of Gallipoli peninsula.

It was reported last month that Field Marshal Baron von der Goltz had been appointed commander of the Turkish forces in the Caucasus. A dispatch from Rome Tuesday said the field marshal with 30,000 men had been locked up in Erzerum by the Russians.

CARRANZA TROOPS ARE DEFEATED BY REBELS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Rebels in the eastern oil region of Mexico yesterday defeated Carranza forces at Chapultepec, half way between Tuxtepec and Tampico, according to a consular dispatch from Tampico. The Carranza forces lost forty men and a quantity of guns and ammunition.

The leader of the rebels is believed to have been General Diaz. No foreigners were injured, according to the State Department report, but a number of oil camps were raided.

AEROPLANE IS SEEN OVER POWDER PLANT

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 3.—It became known today that a mysterious aeroplane was seen hovering over the Du Pont Powder Works at Carney's Point, New Jersey, on the Delaware river, last Monday night, but whether it came or where it went has not been established.

The Du Pont Company has no idea of the reason for its presence.

WAR SIGNALS OF NAVY MAY BE BETRAYED

Disappearance of Code May Be Proof of Espionage

Admiral Winslow Says New Cryptogram Is Likely

Navy officials at Washington, D. C., today announced that a new secret code book for the use of the United States navy would undoubtedly be ordered before the end of this week, as all efforts to find the missing code book, which mysteriously disappeared from the torpedo-boat destroyer Hull in this harbor, have been unavailing. It is feared that the previous book, which contains all of the keys to the secret message codes of all kinds used in war and battle practice in the navy, has fallen into the hands of some foreign government.

These dispatches from Washington, received at noon today, were that the high officials of the navy frankly admit they are alarmed at the mysterious disappearance of the book. Admiral Winslow today reported to Secretary of the Navy Daniels that all efforts to find the missing code book have been unavailing. It is very probable, Admiral Winslow said, that a change in the code will be ordered immediately, so that the contents of the missing book may be rendered useless to its possessor in the event that it has gone into the hands of representatives of a powerful foreign nation.

The missing packet is the battle signal book, and is quite as important as the secret code which is used when ships in foreign waters are communicating with home. This latter code is recognized among nations as the best of its kind in the world and would be difficult to replace.

Every ship in the navy has one of these books aboard. The copy on the Hull was in possession of Lieutenant Herbert A. Jones, who is commander of the Pacific reserve torpedo flotilla, and Ensign Robert D. Kirkpatrick. Both officers have been ordered to appear before a court martial to sit at the Mare Island navy yard, where the two officers are now stationed.

The most thorough of searches was made for the book. It was thought that it might have been destroyed or fallen into the sea, but questioning of Lieutenant Jones and Ensign Kirkpatrick has not resulted in determining the manner of the secret code's disappearance.

The two officers will probably be disciplined for negligence in losing the book, which is supposed to be kept with a watchful fidelity as is the safety of the ship.

ARTILLERY BATTLES ON WEST FRONT REPORTED

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—Notable artillery activity by both sides along the Franco-Belgian front is reported by German army headquarters in a formal statement. The allied artillery fire has been particularly heavy in the vicinity of Arras, where the Germans recently made a considerable gain of ground. English mine craters in the vicinity of Hulluch were occupied by German troops. The report says:

"Western theater: The enemy artillery has been vigorously repelled to the shelling by our artillery of enemy positions over a wide front.

"Northwest of Hulluch we occupied two craters caused by the explosion of British mines before our front.

"In the region of Neuville the enemy increased his artillery fire until during the afternoon it assumed great activity. Along other parts of the front lively artillery activity developed.

"In the Argonne land grenade fights occurred.

"In the region of Peronne our airmen shot down two aeroplanes, one English and one French. Three of the captured planes were killed and the French observation officer was seriously injured."

GUARDIAN FOR REALTY BROKER IS REFUSED

Superior Judge Everett J. Brown today denied the petition of Osgood Putnam and W. Putnam, executors of the estate of the late Osgood Putnam, asked for the appointment of a guardian of the Real Estate Union of San Francisco. The guardianship was sought that litigation might be prevented against Johnson to fully paid for the Real Estate Union and with financial difficulties. Johnson was a year ago declared incompetent and placed in a sanatorium for treatment.

ZEPPELIN REPORTED WRECK IN NORTH SEA

LONDON, Feb. 3.—A fishing trawler reported today to the naval authorities that she had seen a German Zeppelin in the North Sea in a sinking condition. It was stated in an official announcement given out this evening.

SANG TO WOUNDED BRITISH BERKELEY GIRL WITH ALLIES MUSIC BOON TO WOUNDED

MISS AMY HOLMAN, ENGLISH CONCERT SINGER, WHO SANG TO WAR VICTIMS IN BRITISH HOSPITALS.

Amy Holman, Concert Singer, Tells of Woman's Place in War

BERKELEY, Feb. 3.—Like another Jenny Lind, Miss Amy Holman, a talented English concert singer, sang her way to the hearts of thousands of wounded soldiers who were in British hospitals in her native land.

Miss Holman is the guest of Mrs. J. H. Mortimer of 514 Cedar street, Berkeley, who is one of the first of the young singers found plenty of work for her talents.

"I wanted to do something to help," she said today, "and my voice was my only asset. I was not willing to risk nursing with my inexperience, so I offered my one talent to the cause."

Exercising plenty for this one talent she found. From one county to another where wounded soldiers were quartered she traveled singing in the hospitals morning and night. Everywhere the soldiers turned pale when faces lowered and murmured a bit of a smile. In order private homes, large enough for the purpose, wounded soldiers were taken and cared for when the hospitals threatened to be overcrowded, and here too she sang.

"For almost a year Miss Holman has been engaged at this work. But not only has she succeeded in easing the burdens of the soldiers by her own singing, but she has served as an example to others. New throughout England regular organizations exist to carry the blessed comfort of music to the injured. Representatives of these organizations are even sent to the Continent to sing at the field hospitals to which the soldiers are first carried. So, though the work was still a pleasure to her and to the men, Miss Holman found the field now so covered that she could, with a clear conscience, take the opportunity for a long needed rest. Later in this country Miss Holman may take up concert work again.

"England bravely puts on a cheerful face before the world, as she ought to," she declares. "Miss Holman, 'but only those who are at the heart of things know the suffering of the war. I have seen so many of our boys suffering in the hospitals that I have come to understand what war really means. In many, many homes there is someone missing; in many others, someone desperately hurt. Many of the larger exiles have been thrown open for the care of the sufferers; and only one who could do many other things to take the place of the missing man. They have never shaken the call."

Supreme Court Gets Divorce, So She May Rewed

Los Angeles Law Is Strange 'Cruelty' or 'Choker,' It Rules

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—California's Supreme Court is sarcastic as well as poetical, as shown in a decision handed down today in the case of William J. Dart, a member of the Salvation Army in Los Angeles, imprisoned for violating a provision of the charter of the southern city providing that all money and clothes collectors for charity must have certificates of the municipal charities board.

The court, after quoting Shakespeare and being very satisfied, ordered Dart discharged and declared certain portions of the law to be unconstitutional. Dart, following his arrest, had taken the case to the higher court on habeas corpus proceedings.

The Los Angeles municipal charity board had been from a sprinkling, which ends with the statement: "This great thing, charity, is struck down by this ordinance."

Then, in another section, the words of Portia in "The Merchant of Venice," are quoted as follows:

"The quality of mercy is not strained. 'Tis dropped like the gentle rain from heaven. 'Tis the place beneath."

San Diego Harbor Dredging Recommended

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Dredging operations at San Diego, California, harbor at an estimated cost of $25,000 and uncertain cost of maintenance were recommended by the War Department today to Congress. The plan designed to facilitate approach of warships to the government coaling station provided a 32-foot approach to the municipal wharf channel.

GET READY FOR FIRST BLOW, SAYS PRESIDENT

St. Louis Audience Told U. S. Must Be Prepared to Withstand Attacks From Our Enemies

FIFTEEN THOUSAND HEAR EXECUTIVE

Declares World's Peace Must Come From the World Powers; Wants the Greatest Navy

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 3.—President Wilson today told an audience of 15,000 persons cheering tumultuously at his feet that the United States should have the greatest navy in the world. "I believe the navy of the United States should be unconquerable," he said, "the greatest in the world."

The President declared that submarine commanders abroad have instructions which for the most part conform with international law, but that the act of one of the commanders might set the world afire, including America.

"Upon the ocean, there are hundreds of cargoes of American goods, 'Cotton, grain and all the beautiful supplies, America is sending out to the world—and any one of these cargoes, any one of those ships may be the point of contact that will bring America into the war."

For the first time during the tour the President told how one set of ligatures was cut off from the world. He said these kept the United States from helping them as it would like. He made the statement in trying to show that the United States was really neutral.

There was an overflow of 30,000 persons on the street while the President spoke in the Coliseum.

The President opened with the statement that he had "come seeking something in the Middle West and sound it."

He said he had been told the Middle West was against preparedness; but did not believe it. "I did not come out to learn how you thought, but to tell you what was going on. I came out that there may be absolute clarification of the issues we are now confronting."

"America is at peace with all the world because she is the friend of all the world. The friendship is genuine. We are the friend of all the world because we are made up of all of the world and understand all the world. It would tear the heart strings of America to be at war with any other nation."

SHOW FRIENDSHIP.

"We believe we can show our friendship for the world better by keeping out of this struggle than by getting into it. I do not misread the spirit of America."

I have no indictment of any form of government.

"No man can lead America, any whether that her people do not desire to be led. I believe it to be my duty to subordinate my individual feelings to the conscientious attempt to interpret and express in these international affairs the genuine spirit of my fellow citizens."

"So far as America is concerned, no man need go amongst us preaching peace. We are disciples of peace already and no man need preach that gospel to you."

"Suppose my neighbor's house is on fire and the roof is of combustible material."

BOMBS MAIN WHEN ZEPPELINS RAID BRITISH

Loss of Life Is Told in Messages From London Zone

Men, Women and Children Victims of Teuton Explosives

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The removal by the government of most of the restrictions on the publication of news about the raids has released a flood of accounts of the latest visit of the Zeppelins.

A part of Staffordshire was the only place in which material damage was done. The towns in this district were fully lit when the Zeppelins approached. The deaths and injuries in this district were in many cases attended by harrowing circumstances, as, for instance, the killing of a woman missionary with a bomb dropped between her and her mother's arms as she sat nursing it; of a whole family as it sat around the fire place; of also the decapitation of a workman and the cutting off of a woman's legs. Workmen's houses were destroyed, and buildings were unroofed.

Nowhere did the raids cause panic. The story of the killing of the woman missionary is thus given in detail by a correspondent, who is a member of the same parish:

"Not far from the center of the town is a church separated by a short distance from the chapel, in which a mission for women and girls was in progress. The woman missionary, wife of a well-known vicar, was standing, Bible in hand, addressing an audience of two hundred women and girls when a bomb dropped between her and the chapel. It made a hole in the ground four feet deep and twelve feet in diameter within twenty feet of the chapel. There was a blinding flash, then all was darkness. The woman missionary was struck by a huge fragment and killed instantly. Another woman and a young girl also were killed. The screams of the injured arose in the darkness and many persons were trampled in the confusion and panic which prevailed for a few moments. Two clergymen were present at the meeting and both were injured."

AD INJURED.

"Many worked heroically at the work of rescue, and as fast as the sufferers were dragged out from under the debris they were removed to the local hospitals, where the doctors and nurses worked untiringly in the center of the danger zone. The church and chapel were nearly wrecked by bomb fragments, which bored holes several inches deep in the solid masonry."

"From a town in Leicestershire: The noise of the Zeppelin engines was heard on the north side of the town shortly after the evening was over. Within three minutes later the first bomb fell in the yard of a cafe and wrecked all the outbuildings in the neighborhood, smashing every window for a radius of 300 feet. A second bomb fell in the center of the main street, killing a woman walking with her husband, and injuring the latter so badly he died in a short time. A woman shopkeeper also was killed and a young woman friend was wounded, dying on reaching the hospital."

A third bomb fell a few minutes later on the opposite side of the town, wrecking two houses, blowing in shop fronts and killing three members of one family who were watching the airship near their home. A shopkeeper and an employee were killed in front of their shop.

Altogether there were ten deaths in the town and a considerable number of persons injured. There were no fires, all the bombs dropped being of an explosive character."

LINCOLNSHIRE RAID.

From a town in Lincolnshire: A raid passed over the town at 11 p. m., dropping fifty bombs, for the most part of an incendiary character. The material damage done was insignificant, being confined to buildings of industrial importance. Three pedestrians were killed and seven slightly injured.

From a town in Norfolk: News that Zeppelins were approaching reached the city at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon when they had yet passed the coast. The airship was seen following morning before the last of the raiders left England. Norfolk sustained only slight damage. A single large estate was the target for several bombs, but the only result was the destruction of a workman's little cottage.

The war office has issued the following statement with reference to the raid:

"The utterly inaccurate report in the Berlin official telegram of February 1, which purported to describe the effect of the German raid on the night of January 31, affords further proof of the fact that the raiders were quite unable to ascertain their position or shape their course with any degree of certainty."

"A number of cases of injury, mostly slight, have been reported since the previous raid, and there have been two or three more deaths. The figures now stand as follows:

"Killed—Men, 32; women, 20; children, 4. Total, 56.

"Injured—Men, 51; women, 48; children, 201. Total, 300, making the totals of killed and injured: Men, 34; women, 63; children, 8, a total of 105."

VILLA LOCATED 50 MILES EAST OF GALLEGO

Reinforcements of Men Sent to Put an End to Out-law Band.

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 3.—Francisco Villa was located today near Tule, about fifty miles east of Gallego, according to General Gaviro, commander at Juarez. Gaviro dispatched 100 men to reinforce those sent out yesterday toward Bosque Bonito and aid in the capture and extermination of the Villa band.

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 2.—The flight toward the American border of Francisco Villa, officially reported yesterday, has been followed by the movement eastward from the mountains of Western Chihuahua of groups of bandits, according to reports received here.

Early today no news had been received from the detachments of Mexican troops sent in pursuit of a band of Mexicans, said to be led by Villa, which was reported traveling towards the Texas border, ninety miles east of El Paso. Villa was reported to have with him a large quantity of loot, and was said to be in the course of his operations in Northern Mexico.

Two hundred bandits from Western Chihuahua were reported last night near Villa Ahumada, and another group was seen near Guzman, indicating an exodus from Western Chihuahua.

While the Carranza authorities at Juarez believe Villa intends to leave Mexico, in other quarters it is said he contemplates a junction with a force said to have been quietly recruited in this city.

NEW MARINE WAYS TO COST $500,000

City to Gain Big Payroll With Construction of Shipyards.

J. D. Barnes and Company, millwrights of 115 Steuart street, San Francisco, announced at noon today that a $500,000 ship building plant and marine ways would be built in the city on an eight-acre tract which the concern has just purchased along the Oakland estuary at the foot of Chestnut street in Alameda. The plant will ultimately be a million-dollar affair.

Altogether it will be six months before the plant is completed, work on ships will be started within three months, the company officials announce. Already the concern has orders for the building of a half-dozen schooner, a steam schooner for the lumber trade and an Alaskan steamer.

More than 500 men will be given employment on the plant, and a weekly payroll of between $5000 and $10,000 will be handled.

The concern was organized in 1912, but because of lack of finances, no shipyards were built before. With the enormous demand now being made for ships the company officials determined to build the site on the Oakland estuary and erect a plant immediately. Many Oakland capitalists are financially interested in the proposition.

J. D. Barnes is president of the corporation, with J. J. Barnes as secretary. The three directors are C. A. Barnes, Captain E. Nielsen and Captain E. V. Riddout. It is announced that the work of constructing the machinery shops and the marine ways will be begun as soon as the ground can be cleared away and prepared and lumber taken there.

St. Peter's Parish to Observe Anniversary

Next Sunday has been set aside as "go-to-church-Sunday" by St. Peter's Episcopal parish in remembrance of the visit of the parish on February 4, 1912. On that day the first church services were held in a store building on Shafter avenue. Since that time the church has grown to be one of the best congregations in the city. Father Edgar F. Gee is the rector.

There are now 100 communicants that attend the pretty church which has been erected in the Rock Ridge district, and a school with an enrollment of 140 scholars and a choir of 25 voices. Last year the contributions exceeded $3000 in addition to the support accorded the missions.

Special services will be held next Sunday in honor of the event.

Why Use a Razor?

Whiskers Freeze Off

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Feb. 3.—"Why a razor, anyhow?" asks Robert T. Evans, a member of the city fire department. He has his face heavily lathered for shaving the other morning when an alarm came in. Without removing the lather Evans jumped on to a motor truck, and was soon whizzing thirty miles an hour through a temperature of 6 below zero. He rubbed his hands over his face and his whiskers broke off.

MARYSVILLE, Feb. 3.—The defendants in the suit of John T. Evans against E. J. Evans and E. J. Evans have filed notice in the superior court of Tuba county that they will move the court to vacate the sale of the Tomb ranch, recently made by J. T. Evans.

James Evans claims the ranch is worth $200,000. It was sold for $21,500 several weeks ago.

SALONIKI BOMBARDMENT BY HUGO ZEPPELIN

SALONIKI, Feb. 3.—The Zeppelin which on Tuesday, bombarded Salonika was of very large dimensions. After making a wide detour of the city it began its operations from a height of 2000 feet, by dropping five bombs. The first fell in the town. The raiders missed the next target but tore women to pieces and wounded a small boy.

Another bomb set fire to warehouses filled with fats, oils, benzine and sugar. The buildings flared up like torch and the population became wildly excited.

Meanwhile the Zeppelin continued to drop its missiles, one of which demolished the mosque of Yusuf Pasha, killing three persons and injuring eleven Greek refugees from Asia Minor. Another bomb crashed through the roof of a house and instantly killed five persons.

Fast airships rose in pursuit of the Zeppelin, which escaped.

German Cruiser Atlantic Raider Fast, Heavily Armored Vessel Is Menace

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The report that a still more formidable German sea raider than has been reported—the fast cruiser Roon—is at large in the Atlantic and the report that the Roon, in fact, was near by and directed the operations of the raider the Moewe which sunk six ships and captured the Appam within 200 miles of the coast of Spain, promises to add another chapter to the yet untold story of the daring of German raiders.

The Roon is a fast, heavily-armed cruiser of nearly 10,000 tons, with more than 13,000 horsepower, 400 feet long. She was built at Kiel in 1902, has four funnels and extra high wireless masts. She carries a Krupp armor belt, four torpedo tubes which can discharge forward, astern and broadside, and mounts twenty-eight guns in all, four 5.2-inch, ten 5.9-inch and fourteen 3.4-inch.

The British embassy denies it has information that the Roon is at large and was reported off the Canary Islands, but the story that she accompanied the Moewe is accredited to British aboard the Appam.

APPAM'S STATUS IS NOT ENTIRELY SETTLED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Secretary Lansing today said that there was no question as to the Appam's status as a prize, but that the question of her disposition still involved further consideration of the Hague convention and the Prussian-American treaty. Lieutenant Berg's refusal to land British seamen who were gunpointers on British merchantmen will be the subject of further consideration.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Feb. 3.—The British liner Appam moved up from Old Point today and anchored off this port to discharge the 245 persons given liberty to land in the United States. Captain Harrison, the German officer, moves his craft only on orders through Collector Hamilton.

"We are treating her as an English ship which has put into an American port flying the German flag," said Harrison, "and she is a man who says he is an officer of the German navy." It is Hamilton's explanation of the present attitude of the United States.

Some of those who were passengers on the Appam were sailors captured by the German raider variously described as the Panga or Moewe, prepared to land in Newport News, but most of them will be transferred with the crews of other captured vessels to Norfolk, where a board of inquiry will be held.

TO HURRY HOME

Sir Edward Merivether and other British colonial officers with large quantities of baggage have arranged to place their property in customs bond here and proceed directly to New York to take the first available ship for home.

Lieutenant Berg maintains his determination to permit no one on board the liner save on official business. He insists upon recognition of the absolute neutrality of the ship and her company. He is holding more than 200 persons aboard, including his own private crew of 22 men, some 20 Germans who were prisoners of war on the Appam; Captain Harrison and his entire crew of 135 men, whom he claims are not deserters, and whom he claims belong to the British army or navy.

MUST STAY ABOARD.

Until the Washington Government passes upon the German contentions all these persons will remain on the liner.

Prince von Hatzfeldt, counselor of the German Embassy, is urging his claim that the Appam is a fair prize of war, entitled under an old Prussian-American treaty to remain in an American port as long as the prize crew desires. Captain Bant, British naval attaché, is maintaining the contrary. He is holding more than 200 persons aboard, including his own private crew of 22 men, some 20 Germans who were prisoners of war on the Appam; Captain Harrison and his entire crew of 135 men, whom he claims are not deserters, and whom he claims belong to the British army or navy.

STORY OF TRIP.

Francis Charles Fuller, chief commissioner of Ashanti, told the first complete story of the capture of the Appam and her voyage across the Atlantic.

"It was about mid-afternoon when we, on the Appam, first saw the raider approaching," he said. "I do not believe she bore a flag, but we thought nothing of this. We smiled at her unkept condition."

Then suddenly a shot was fired across our bows and our smiles faded. It was serious business. The Appam stopped immediately and the raider sped toward us. As she advanced her false foremast fell away and her big guns stared us in the face. Two torpedo tubes also were uncovered.

Of course the passengers were frightened and we began to make preparations to save ourselves in case our ship was sunk. Soon, however, we were advised by our officers that we should not be harmed if we did not attempt to resist, and the passengers regained their composure.

WILL TREATED.

"From the first our captors treated us well. They made it evident that they meant business, but were not unduly harsh. They placed bombs on the ship, of course, as a precautionary measure, and the guards were armed, but were not offensive."

"I cannot say that I particularly enjoyed the trip across the Atlantic, but it might have been worse. We suffered more from lack of food, but the prize crew shared our luck, so we did not object. Only in the last two days was the shortage of food and water noticeable. Then we got down to a diet of rice, kippered herring and crackers, and were denied the use of fresh water except for drinking."

Sir Edwin Merivether and Frederick Seton James, formerly secretary of Nigeria, a British province in West Africa, who is on his way to England to take a new post, told stories similar to that of Fuller and also expressed appreciation of their good treatment on the boat.

CAPTURE OF APPAM DELIGHTS GERMANS

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—News of the capture of the Appam at Norfolk was greeted with delight in the German capital. The capture of the Appam and her voyage across the Atlantic has aroused a new outburst of enthusiasm for the navy. The cruiser Moewe—in English the Sargol—was enrolled immediately on the honor list with the Bremen, Prinz Eitel Friedrich and Kaiserin.

There is no little mystery here regarding the identity of the Moewe.

Bourse Grows Calmer on Statement of Policy

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—The feeling which has been prevalent in German circles that a crisis is at hand in German-American relations, particularly in regard to the Lusitania case, has been moderated, if only in slight degree, by the semi-official announcement regarding the forwarding to Ambassador von Bernstorff at Washington of instructions which give hope of a definite settlement. The Bourse, which had been depressed by this situation, recovered somewhat on publication of the announcement.

FRANKFORT-ON-THINE-MAIN, Feb. 3.

The Frankfurter Zeitung, whose utterances on certain subjects are regarded as inspired, publishes an article in which vigorous objection is expressed to the tone adopted by the press of Berlin in discussing Secretary Lansing's note on submarine warfare and the arming of merchantmen, and in particular to the statements made in Berlin that the proposals are unacceptable to Germany. It dissents from the position taken by the Kreuz Zeitung and Professor von Stengel in discussing the Lusitania case. It says that Germany has no right to negotiations regarding the freedom of the seas, since England, with America's assistance, is only using the negotiations to wrest from Germany's hands her submarine weapons. To this the Zeitung rejoins:

RESPECTFUL LANGUAGE.

"It is a gross offense, not only against international law but against the most elementary conception of good manners, to charge openly that the United States is putting forth efforts in the sphere of international law merely with the perfidious purpose of helping England."

Turning to the present status of the Lusitania case, the Zeitung says it cannot be ignored that the negotiations have taken an unsatisfactory form.

"Apprehension of this kind," it says, "must exist in America also, as Washington evidently intends to dispose of the Lusitania case at the same time as the general question of submarine warfare and is using the Lusitania case to obtain Germany's consent on the general question."

THE KIND OF "FOE."

It hints that this is a very objectionable procedure, involving serious possibilities.

"That people in America are thinking of bringing the matter to a decision," adds the Zeitung, "is evident from the fact that Sir Wilson has been able to obtain certain information from belligerents. We hope that no breach of relations—not to mention something worse—may follow between Germany and the United States, but if the unexpected should happen, Germany will continue her new policy as stoutly as she did the old. But we do not want to be lulled by certain fingo heroes of the writing desk into the illusion that this foe is not dangerous."

Stocking Preserves With Mexican Quail

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 3.—Officials of the state game commission are expecting the first consignment of a large number of Mexican quail this week. The quail were secured on Mexican highlands and will be placed in the southern counties of the state.

It is also the plan to secure fifty or seventy-five elk from the Yellowstone and probably 1000 deer from Northern states to liberate in game preserves or closed counties during the winter and spring.

The game to be placed about the state will be the largest number ever known since the game commission was established.

Lane Explains in Gasoline Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The rise in the price of gasoline, Secretary Lane reported to the Senate today in response to a resolution is caused by shortage of supply and an increase in consumption. He recommended that the situation be relieved by the use of heavier distillates in internal combustion engines.

BOY WITH ONE LEG, VICTIM.

When two newboys, Mike de Gregoria of 817 Broadway and Jake Goldberg engaged in a fist fight at Twelfth and Broadway today the former received a fractured nose and other injuries which sent him to the emergency hospital, where he was treated by Dr. H. E. Frank.

The injured boy, who has but one leg, was attacked before a crowd at Twelfth and Broadway, and claims he was subject to a vicious beating while on the ground.

Admiralty officials evidently were not surprised at the news, but for obvious reasons decline to give any information.

A vessel named Moewe is given in the German navy list as a surveying ship. She formerly was engaged in survey work at the East African station. It is improbable that this little steamer of 650 tons, with a speed of only nine knots, could accomplish the exploits in question. It may have been that some larger steamer assuming the name Moewe when converted into an auxiliary cruiser, slipped through the British lines. The German surveying ship Moewe was sunk by gun fire August 5, 1914.

material, it is not my fault if the fire spreads. The danger is not from within, but from without.

The commander of the submarines for the most part are in accord with the law of nations, but the act of one commander may set the world on fire.

"There are cargoes of wheat and cotton and manufactured articles on the sea and every one of them may cause trouble because they go into the hands of fire."

"America has drawn no fine points, no new issues in her international relations; she has merely asserted the rights of mankind when the life of mankind is threatened in a world aflame with war. She has voted upon what already is written plain on the documents of international law."

The President said that some day statesmen of the older countries would have to admit that it was America that kept burning the flames of international law upon its altar when every man ready to make allowances for the winds of passion.

"I am ready to make every patient allowance," he continued, "for those whose tempers are upset by war."

"I am not in a critical frame of mind. I am ready to yield everything but the vital points. I am ready to make allowances for both sides."

"You know how one set of belligerents is shut off from the rest of the world. Therefore, the United States is not able to express itself toward them as it would like. I believe the United States is really neutral."

"My fellow citizens, while we know our own purpose it does not follow that other nations understand."

"Men press forward with a sort of blind recklessness."

WORLD PEACE.

"The peace of the world, including America, rests with the remainder of the world and not with America. There are two alternatives: Either we shall sit still and wait for the necessity for immediate national defense to come and then call for volunteers who would be, for the first few months, impotent as against a trained and experienced enemy."

"Or we shall arm the ancient American principle that the men of the country shall be ready to take care of their own government."

The crowd roared approval. "You have either got to get the men of this nation ready to withstand the first onslaught or you are going to be ready to suffer from the first disaster."

"When the President said he was only asking for a trained citizenship he was cheered. He said he did not want to command a great army, but to command the support of confidence of his fellow citizens. He plans to have before Congress a new plan to save the lives of American youths, he said. And those plans will go through."

DIAMONDS OF MRS. STOCKER ARE MISSING

Man and Woman Are Arrested in Jewelry
Mystery

In an effort to clear up the mystery surrounding the theft of $70,000 in jewels from Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker, detectives are on their way from the East today with two prisoners.

Oakland and San Francisco pawnshops and jewelry stores have been secretly searched by police and Pinkerton detectives for weeks in efforts to find the missing jewels. Only last night did the secret of the theft leak out.

Mrs. Stocker, daughter of the late J. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, lost a $25,000 diamond necklace and other jewelry during the New Year's holidays, when she was a guest of the St. Francis across the bay. Her attorney, Gavin McNab, admitted this but declared that the jewels had been recovered. According to Chief of Police White of San Francisco a pair of rings were stolen from her and returned in November.

In the meantime word came last night from St. Paul to the effect that a prominent Los Angeles woman, a man who had accompanied her, had been arrested there. Detective Bruce Boyd of the St. Paul police is searching in that city for the stones of the Stocker necklace, despite McNab's statement that it has been recovered.

Fifty-one diamonds from the necklace are declared to have been found in a Los Angeles jewelry shop, where they had been left with orders to set them in brooches and other pieces. Several stones, it is believed, were also disposed of in Oakland and others in San Francisco.

The man and woman arrested in St. Paul are said to have been in San Francisco at the time Mrs. Stocker reported her loss to the police. Mrs. Stocker, who had been in Los Angeles, could not be found, and may be on her way to St. Paul.

Whether there will be prosecutions or not the detectives cannot state, declaring that Mrs. Stocker did not care to prosecute, but that her husband insisted on the jewels being traced.

The loss of the necklace was set at $25,000 in San Francisco, while the Los Angeles police understand that $50,000 in jewels was lost, and that St. Paul police were told that the value of the jewels was $70,000. Last night the St. Paul police had a message from Los Angeles that Mrs. Stocker denied any loss. Mrs. Stocker could not last night be found in Los Angeles.

W. H. Fields, local superintendent of the Pinkerton agency, admits that there was a robbery, but refuses to give any details. Other jewels besides the necklace, it is hinted, were stolen. The St. Francis management disclaims any knowledge of the affair.

LOS ANGELES DETECTIVES ARE INVESTIGATING

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—Police Detective Bruce Boyd and H. V. Hatter, local superintendent of a detective agency, have been in St. Paul for several days investigating the actions of a man and a woman suspected of being implicated in the robbery of jewels from Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker. It became known here today that fifty-one loose diamonds believed to have been taken from a necklace were being held by a local jeweler. Several articles of jewelry were said to have been stolen from Mrs. Stocker.

view is borne out by witnesses. The other shot went through the plate glass window.

During the struggle the crowd was engrossed in watching the affair, but no one paid any attention to the two men in the automobile. Within a few minutes a crowd of more than 100 people had gathered, but only one man came to the aid of Sergeant Thornbury and aided in subduing the prisoner.

THE PAIR ESCAPE.

While the fight between Thornbury and Savage was in progress, the two men in the automobile sped away west in Eleventh street. No one made an attempt to read the number on the machine or to get a description of the driver and his companion. No descriptions that were of any value could be obtained by the police, and Thornbury, engaged in his single-handed fight with Savage, had no opportunity to obtain this information.

The police are working today to learn the identity of the accomplices of Savage, but have made little progress. Inspectors William Kyle and John Duffon have been detailed on the case.

The temptation offered to a daring robber by the pawnshop jewelry store windows in Broadway has often been remarked by Captain Peterson.

"We'll have a good robbery down there one of these days," he said a week or so ago. "A couple of men with an automobile could do it nicely and make their get-away. These stores keep some beautiful stones in their windows and they are not protected."

The front window of the Jacobs store has an iron grating across it. But the side window has no grating, and the diamonds protected from the front by the grating are accessible from the side.

Savage told the police that he had worked as a magazine writer and had often thought out how a crime of this kind could be carried off by a little high-handed daring. The robbery was planned in San Francisco by the trio, and they came to Oakland in the automobile used in the affair.

They drove west in Eleventh street, Broadway, and halted beside the store. Here, according to Savage, the diamonds protected from the front by the grating are accessible from the side.

Savage, as he calls himself, left the machine, carrying the jewels wrapped in newspapers. One of his companions got out to guard his retreat to the automobile, while the other remained at the wheel with his engine going, ready to make the dash for it at her home near here. A diamond necklace valued at more than $25,000 was stolen, it was said, while she was in San Francisco the latter part of December. Mrs. Stocker, according to reports, has declined to prosecute the suspects under surveillance at St. Paul.

POLICE SERGEANT HERBERT J. THORNBURY, WHO LAST NIGHT NARROWLY AVOIDED DEATH TWICE IN CAPTURING A DARING GEM THIEF, WHO SHOT HIM THROUGH THE SHOULDER. THORNBURY WAS PHOTOGRAPHED IN HIS BED THIS MORNING.

freedom when the robbery should have been achieved.

CAREFULLY PLANNED.

Savage had come from San Francisco on several occasions and had looked over the field, planning the robbery. He said he chose the Jacobs shop because the stones in the window were larger than in any other window not successfully protected.

Had it not been for the presence of Sergeant Thornbury in the immediate neighborhood, there is no doubt but that the attempt would have met with the most complete success.

The crowd enjoyed a merry time scrambling for the handful of gems which had been dashed to the sidewalk when Thornbury encountered the robber. It is thought several people may have been enriched by the robbery who had no part in planning it, as an inventory shows that diamonds valued at something between $500 and $1000 are missing.

The first known to the detective bureau of the robbery last night was when L. C. Seny, a newsboy, came to police headquarters with two big diamonds, valued at $3400. He handed the gems over to Captain W. J. Petersen.

"I picked these up in the crowd while they were fighting," the newsboy explained simply.

"You did what?" shouted Petersen. "There's a robbery down at Jacobs' store," Seny answered.

THE JEWELS RESTORED.

Petersen put the diamonds in his pocket and started his detectives on the jump for the scene of the robbery.

Later Jules Jacobs came to police headquarters, lamenting the loss of his two choicest jewels, the twin stones valued at $3400 found by the boy and handed over to Petersen. Petersen took a description and then placed the stones beside it.

"I guess these are the ones," he said, presenting them to Jacobs.

The shooting was seen by Dr. C. C. Steele from his window across the street. He told the police that Savage had fired the shot which wounded Thornbury.

Savage, now being held in custody by the police, is exceedingly uncommunicative. He declared today that he did not know the names of his accomplices, that he had just "picked them up" in San Francisco. He admitted that he was a former newspaper reporter and that he had worked on Los Angeles and San Francisco papers. He has also written for the

Yussuf Izzedin Assassin's Victim

Heir Apparent to Throne Not Suicide

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Yussuf Izzedin, whatever may be said, was assassinated by his suite by order of the committee of union and progress," said Cherif Pasha, who, with Prince Sabah Edin, directs the personal movement of the Turkish opposition, to a reporter of the Matin. "Latterly Yussuf had revolted against the dictatorship of the Young Turks. He became dangerous and he has been removed. His successor and cousin, Valid Edin, is even more hostile to the Young Turks than was Yussuf. I should not like to make prediction regarding the length of his life."

A dispatch from Constantinople to Reuters' Telegram Company, dated February 2, announced the report that Yussuf Izzedin, heir apparent to the Turkish throne, had committed suicide.

Hearing for Better Depot Is Scheduled

RICHMOND, Feb. 2.—Richmond's fight to compel the Santa Fe Railroad to provide this city with a better and more adequate passenger depot will be heard before one of the members of the State Railroad Commission in the city hall at 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning. Attorneys for the city and the railway corporation will appear at the hearing.

Representatives of the municipality and of all the civic and commercial organizations of the city recently asked the Santa Fe officials to provide the new station. Their request was refused, and the case was then carried to the Railroad Commission.

Similar action was taken some time ago against the Southern Pacific Company when that corporation refused to improve its depot facilities here. On that occasion the commission's ruling resulted in the construction of a $25,000 station by the Southern Pacific Company here.

DISLIKED HUSBAND'S WAY.

Mrs. Ralph E. Meyers, 1235 Eighty-second avenue, objected to being told by her husband that "they would find her dead some day," and she did not like being chased by her husband, armed with a large butcher knife. The continuance by Meyers of this sort of alleged conduct caused Mrs. Meyers to turn her husband over to the police last night on charges that he had repeatedly threatened her life.

magazines. Other than this he refused to disclose anything concerning himself, except that he had at one time been employed as a private detective.

Not once, but twice, did Police Sergeant Herbert J. Thornbury come under the shadow of death in his battle with the gem thief last evening. It was after Thornbury had been shot through the right shoulder and with a still wrestled with his captive, that the thief twisted about in the officer's arms and placed the point of his revolver at his heart.

Before he could pull the trigger Thornbury, through a superhuman effort, wrenched his arm free and, with his policeman's baton, knocked the point of the revolver downward.

Then, still clinging to the fighting thief, and uttering a thin, weak cry with his club, Thornbury began to lose strength. It was just in the nick of time that Patrolman Corey rushed to the scene and secured the thief. Thornbury was removed to the home of his father at 633 Fifty-sixth street this morning. His wife is in a local hospital, recovering from an operation performed a week ago.

HE HEARS THE CRASH.

"I was walking up Broadway, on the west side, when I saw a man crouch at the curb at Eleventh street, run forward and throw something through the window of the loan office," Thornbury said this morning.

He began to run, and I saw that the fellow stepped back from the window and again struck it. Then he reached in and scooped up two handfuls of diamonds. He did not make a haphazard grab. He evidently had his gems chosen as he reached far back into the window for them.

"I arrived just as he was turning away from the window. His back was to me and I threw my left arm about his neck. Things happened in a hurry then. The fellow managed to get his left hand over his right shoulder and he fired. I could feel that bullet go right through me."

"My shoulder hurt so that I could not reach around to get my gun, so I drew my club. My prisoner then twisted about in my arms and put the point of his gun right at my heart. I saw him in time and before he could pull the trigger I knocked the point of the revolver down with my club."

"He began to drag me down the street then. I was losing my strength very fast when Patrolman Corey rushed up and took the fellow. Corey deserves a lot of credit for his part in the capture."

The bullet which the prisoner fired at Thornbury passed through his body, missing an artery by less than a quarter of an inch.

Morgan Sails to Arrange Big Loan

French Collateral to Be Security

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—J. P. Morgan quietly sailed for Europe last evening on the steamship Rotterdam, presumably to arrange a large French loan in the United States.

This loan, according to well informed financial circles, will range from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000. It will be secured by collateral.

When the news of Morgan's scheduled departure became known it was at first thought he was sailing in connection with the establishment of another English credit.

Morgan said he had no comment to make on his journey.

At the office of Morgan & Co. it was said that Morgan's trip was "partly for business and partly for pleasure." It was added that he would stop at Falmouth, but it was denied that he was going to participate in negotiations for a new British credit or loan. It being added that Great Britain has ample funds here at present.

From trustworthy quarters it was learned that the proposed bonds will run from three to five years and carry a rate of interest sufficiently high to make the securities attractive to American investors. The securities, it was added, would not only carry a greater rate of interest than the 5 per cent Anglo-French loan.

Inasmuch as there was much criticism that the Anglo-French bonds were only secured by the credit of France and Great Britain, it was said that the new French loan would be secured by American securities held in France, and, not improbably, by the securities of other countries.

BOMB PLOT BARED AS POWDER PLOT?

Suspect Held at Hercules While
Sheriff Veale Investigates.

The railroad yards, the hills about Pinole and boats on the bay are being searched for evidence of what officers believe to be another plot to blow up the Hercules powder plant at Pinole. James McCarthy, captured early yesterday morning, in an alleged attempt to force the door of a storeroom at the powder plant, is being held by the sheriff pending the investigation.

McCarthy declares that he is a tramp and was looking for a place to sleep when arrested. According to the guards about the place there have been several circumstances lately that lead them to believe that another explosion plot was under way. The search in the neighborhood is being made to ascertain if any accomplices are in the region awaiting the outcome of an explosion attempt, and also to discover explosives and fuses which it is believed are concealed for use in causing such an explosion.

McCarthy, it is alleged, was caught picking the lock of a storeroom in which the highest power explosives are kept. The prisoner refused at first to tell his business or his address, but finally explained that he was a tramp, looking for a sleeping place, and that he had entered the wrong quarters.

He was captured at 3 o'clock in the morning. To enter the plant one must climb a high barred wire fence. Superintendent McBride of the factory and Sheriff R. J. Veale of Contra Costa county are directing the investigation.

SURVEY IS MADE BEFORE WANTED

Commissioner Tells Manufacturers Work Is Already Done.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 3. In reply to the request of the Manufacturing Committee of the Chamber of Commerce for a complete survey of the condition of streets in Sacramento and a statement as to what repair work and what permanent street improvements should be undertaken, City Commissioner Burke has notified Albert Elkus that such a survey already has been made and is in the hands of the street department. He further added that he would be pleased at any time to furnish the details of such conditions and plans, upon request.

On behalf of the manufacturing committee, of which he is chairman, Elkus accepted the invitation. In a letter sent to Commissioner Burke, he asked that Superintendent of Streets Burns be instructed to appear before the committee at 2:30 next Monday to submit to them in detail, the data and information for which they asked.

The letter originally sent to Commissioner Burke set forth that if a survey and information were forthcoming, it could speedily be determined what work could be undertaken and what could not and the reasons for not undertaking certain work, if there be any, could be made public.

By pursuing this method," said the letter, "a well defined and complete program could be adopted by your department by the City Commission, and publicity be given the same, which would have the advantage of taking the public into your confidence and give the people of the city a correct understanding of conditions."

Oroville League Elects Officers

OROVILLE, Feb. 3. — The Oroville Social Center League, organized two weeks ago, has chosen officers as follows: President, E. L. Cook; vice-president, Miss Pauline Warner; secretary, Miss J. Jamme; treasurer, H. P. Short. At a meeting a constitution and by-laws were adopted, after being presented for consideration by a committee chosen two weeks ago.

The league will arrange for social meetings in the assembly hall of the grammar school building. The trustees have consented to open the hall for community progress purposes. Any citizen can become a member of the league, and any group of citizens can become identified with it by making proper application.

GOOD SPELLERS TO ATTEND THEATER AS TRIBUNE GUESTS

SCENE FROM "IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE," ONE OF SEASON'S CLEVEREST PLAYS, TO BE SEEN AT MACDONOUGH.

All those who knew there weren't two "it's" in plente and spelled down the long line in the box in the little red country school-house, or the big city grammar, will have no difficulty in seeing the play "It Pays to Advertise," which opens next week at the Macdonough. The good spellers of the community who read "The TRIBUNE" are to be given tickets for the drama by this paper—that is, providing they pick out the misspelled words in the contest to be held by "The TRIBUNE."

The TRIBUNE's spelling contest will take place next Monday. On that day a number of advertisements containing words purposely misspelled will be printed in the newspaper. The misspelled words will be ordinary, the kind that many persons are careless about—those "it's" in "separate," or some other as obvious. To each of the first twenty-five persons sending in a list of these words with the spelling corrected The TRIBUNE will give two free seats for the farce comedy, "It Pays to Advertise."

Each of the advertisements containing the misspelled words will contain the phrase, "It Pays to Advertise." Each advertisement will contain one or more words incorrectly spelled. Contestants must read all of these advertisements in order to find the words. The advertisements will be grouped and designated so as to be easily distinguished.

Answers must be at The TRIBUNE office not later than Wednesday morning by the first mail.

Address answers to the Contest Editor, The TRIBUNE, Oakland. To each of the first twenty-five readers sending in the correct or nearest correct list of answers two seats at the Macdonough will be given free.

The winners of the contest will be announced in Wednesday's issue of The TRIBUNE.

It may not be necessary to thumb the dictionary to win a set of tickets. The words will not be hard and undoubtedly many of those who used to spell down the others will make the correct answers as easily as an authority on orthography. Then, too, this contest is not like that old-fashioned spelling bee, where a misspelled word meant that you were lost, done for and had to take your seat—where one mistake meant that you had no further chance. Your chances in this contest are not gone until the contest editor of The TRIBUNE has finally decided the winners. Of course it is worth while to remember that the winners will be the first twenty-five correct answers received at the office.

Seven Months for Guilty Bootlegger

WOODLAND, Feb. 3.—William Brew, in whose home considerable liquor was found by the officers several days ago, will serve seven months in the Tolo county jail for bootlegging.

After evidence, showing he had violated the terms of his parole granted after his conviction last September, had been presented in the Superior Court he was ordered confined in the county jail. His probation was revoked.

Evidence was produced showing Brew's wife tried to hide the liquor.

Death of Wife Exiles Farmer

With Family He Will Cross Seas

BROWNS VALLEY, Feb. 3.—Sorely grieved over the death of his wife, and refusing to be consoled in his loss, Gutfried Ruesser, a dairymen of this place, will dispose of his holdings, and, with his family of five children, will return to his native country, Switzerland. He will take the remains of his life partner to their old home in the shadow of the Alps.

Mrs. Ruesser died last week, after a brief illness from erysipelas, abruptly upsetting the husband's California career as a successful business man.

Ruesser's farm, near here, is a model place, made up of the united efforts of the couple. Ruesser declares he wants to be away from the scenes where he and Mrs. Ruesser had planned a peaceful old age surrounded by their children.

Damage Is Estimated by Highway Engineer

MARTINEZ, Feb. 3.—Frank Louder, division engineer of the state highway commission, is in this county today looking over the storm damage done to the roads. He has found that it will take some six weeks to repair the damage to the road between Martinez and Port Costa, where numerous washouts have occurred.

It will be May 1 before the Tunnel road to Walnut Creek can be completely repaired. On the road from Martinez to Concord there are two washouts which are being attended to, and on the road from Martinez to Bay Point a twenty-foot strip of new road has been washed out.

New Dormitory for Stanford Is Needed

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Feb. 3.—President Wilbur, accompanied by Vanclyn Stow, business manager and treasurer of the university, inspected Encina hall yesterday. Their mission was to obtain data to aid in formulating plans for a new dormitory. The need of a new "dorm" is one of the new president's themes, it is said, and he has told the students that he will make an effort to secure one so that all Stanford students might live on the campus. The present waiting list at Encina hall is 330, six in excess of the total number of men living in the hall.

Greenville Man Has Leg Shattered

GREENVILLE, Feb. 3.—D. W. McKenzie, proprietor of the Greenville Bottling Works, met with a painful accident, while he attempted to break a road through the snow between his store and Main street with a span of horses and a sleigh.

A tug became unhitched and while fixing it his foot caught in the snow and the horses jerked suddenly and the sleigh struck his leg, shattering the bones near the ankle and also bruising the leg at the knee. Mr. McKenzie is 71 years old but refused to take any anesthetic.

Baron on Boat Torpedoed in Europe

REDING, Feb. 3. — Baron W. E. J. Van der Varen of this city was on the Ryndam, which was blown up in port at Gravesend as the vessel was making the port of London a week ago, according to a telegram received by Varnes from Rotterdam in this city. Four of the crew were killed and seven injured, but the passengers, including Baron Van der Varen, were rescued by a passing vessel.

Baron Van der Varen is on his way to his native country, Holland, where he was called to the old homeland after an absence of 18 years.

SUBWAY TUNNEL

Lodi, Feb. 3.—L. A. Bauman, engineer for the Southern Pacific Company, and City Engineer L. S. Balzotto conferred concerning the proposed subway under the Pine-street crossing of the railroad company's tracks. The decision was made whereby the city engineer will prepare plans and estimates for consideration of the city trustees. The railroad probably will bear a part of the expense.

YOUTHS MAKE MAD DASH FOR LIBERTY

Six Boys in Daring Escape From New York Juvenile Asylum.

HASTINGS, N. Y., Feb. 3.—Tiring of the monotony of life in the New York Juvenile Asylum at Chaucey, the children's village near here, six youths, clad in pajamas and wrapped in blankets, in the wee, small hours of the morning left in search of freedom and adventure.

Just what new sort of adventures others of the band may run across remains a matter of conjecture, but considering the fact that before three of them were captured they had robbed a hardware store and a restaurant and waded through a covered culvert into the Hudson river to escape the police, almost anything is possible.

The slide for liberty was made out of bedroom windows by means of blankets knotted together. The six youths, unable to get their clothes, contented themselves with taking a blanket apiece off their beds. Led by Herbert Mackie, a New York boy, according to some of the boys, they made their way amid a chorus of chattering teeth to the village of Hastings.

Trailing along with their blankets close about them were Theodore Abraham of Brooklyn, N. Y., 16 years old; George Nell of Ossining, N. Y., 15 years old; Theodore Hugel, 16; Fred Himes, 16, and William Nelson, 16, all of New York City.

"THOUGHT THEY WERE GHOSTS." Through the village, along Broadway, they crept silently, hopping from one cold foot to another. It so happened, as they made their gingerly way along, that Mike Martin, himself still in the first bud of youth, was driving his taxicab back to the garage after being out all night. He caught sight of the trailing figures, indistinct in the morning mist, and his voice and his speed went on in equal volume as he sped away. He told the sleepy watchman at the garage that he had seen six ghosts coming down Broadway.

Still led by Mackie, the sextet alighted their way to the hardware store of Morris Rosenbaum, in Warburton avenue. Rosenbaum has a cellar easy access, and this weakness was quickly taken advantage of. In the cellar the boys found rubber boots and rubber coats, which they quickly confiscated.

DARINGLY SWIM OCEAN

While three stayed behind to thaw out near a steam pipe, the others sailed forth to find food. The bridge restaurant, in Warburton avenue, furnished them. Bearing their booty, the food squad went back to Mr. Rosenbaum's cellar, where all had breakfast.

With the inner man satisfied and the outer man, clad in Mike Rosenbaum's rubber garments, the sextet went forth in search of more suitable clothing. They soon met Mike Chersaw, a Russian, who has a klad kash, and exchanged the rubber garments for more suitable ones.

All day long the boys romped about, finally descending into the gulley which runs underneath the Warburton avenue bridge. This gulley is ninety feet deep and 350 feet wide, and at its bottom flows Schermer's creek, a rustic but very cold stream of water.

Police, aided by Kells and Humphreys, keepers of the asylum, appeared at the head of the culvert. The adventurers and the men seeking them saw each other at the same time. The keepers and policemen clambered into the culvert, while the boys ran along its bottom, splashing through the water.

ADVENTURERS WADE SEWER

Some 400 feet before the gulley reaches the Hudson river it is cut off by a closed culvert about eight feet high, into which Schermer's creek runs. This didn't daunt the adventurers. Into the culvert they waded, while the keepers and policemen followed. At the edge of the river three of the boys, Theodore Abraham, George Nell and Herbert Mackie, halted. The other three plunged into the Hudson river and swam to the public pier, onto which they clambered and beyond which they disappeared. At late reports nothing further had been heard of them.

The youths who halted were taken into custody and led before Police Judge Glover. He ordered them sent forth to the asylum, but here an obstacle arose regarding Mackie.

"We won't take him back," announced one keeper. "He's too tough. We don't want him."

The magistrate then sent Mackie back to a detention room to await further action. The policeman then went out and arrested "Mike" Chersaw, who was fined $22 for aiding prisoners to escape and receiving stolen goods.

A general alarm has been sent out for the missing youths.

COLONY CITIZENS TO FORM DISTRICT

Session Will Be Held on Next Tuesday, Under Call.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 3. — A meeting of citizens of the Fair Oaks, Orangevale, Grandview, Citrus Heights, Carmichael and Colusa colonies, to discuss the desirability of forming a Wright Irrigation District to take in all that territory has been called for February 8, by Robert Parker of Fair Oaks.

The plan was discussed a year ago but met with some opposition. Interest now has revived, and there is a likelihood that residents of the colonies will unite to take some action.

S. Glen Andrus, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Fair Oaks resident, is chairman of a committee appointed last year to report back to the citizens upon the desirability of such an irrigation district. This committee met yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce to formulate its report.

Members of the committee are George E. Peters, of Carmichael colony; Samuel Johnson, of Orangevale; R. F. Driver, of Citrus Heights; George E. King and T. M. Watson, of Fair Oaks and D. W. Carmichael also attended.

A election for the formation of an irrigation district in the Fair Oaks Colonies already has been held, and this has had the effect of awakening interest in the rest of the colonies. A petition from Fair Oaks, containing 27 names, was sent recently to Robert Parker, asking him to call a citizens' meeting to discuss the matter.

Johnson Ranch Line Is Determined

Disease Cured by Penetration of Light

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 3.—When rays of light fall upon the skin of our bodies, which is translucent, the greater part of them are arrested, some by one layer of skin, some by another, and still others are not stopped until they have penetrated the subcutaneous tissues.

This arrest of the light rays produces radiant heat, which has a higher penetrating power than convection heat as generated by a hot water bag or poultice, for instance.

Prof. E. C. Titus, in an address, has stated that such heat penetrates 1 inch or more, while convection heat is excited principally on the surface. This is why electric light baths and sun baths are so stimulating to the organs of elimination, especially the skin and kidneys, and so beneficial in so many diseases.

Former Policeman, in Gloom Ends His Life

PHILIP D. Atkinson, a former policeman, died last night at the Emergency Hospital from a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head, fired during a spell of despondency.

According to his widow, Atkinson returned to his home at 25 Forest street last night and was reproved by her for having been drinking. Shortly afterwards, she said, her husband went upstairs and she heard a shot.

GRASS VALLEY MAN HELD. GRASS VALLEY, Feb. 3.—Fred Demer, charged with the murder of Thomas Taylor, a cigarmaker, at the home of Mrs. Taylor's mother, on Tuesday, Jan. 24, was held to answer to the superior court without bonds at his preliminary hearing held here before Judge Mulroy.

Noontide Mass Will Be Kept at St. Leo's

Hereafter mass may be celebrated at St. Leo's Church, Ridgeway and Piedmont avenues, at 12 o'clock on Sundays, as Rev. Owen J. Lacey, the pastor, has gained from Archbishop Edward J. Hanna permission to exercise this privilege, hitherto limited to St. Mary's and St. Francis de Sales Churches.

This arrangement has been made for the convenience of the members of St. Leo's parish who would have to attend services in the two downtown churches unless some change were made in the hours.

St. Leo's Church is planning to build a parish house of two stories with provision for a large entertainment hall in the basement.

BREAK UP BRONCHIAL COUGHS, CROUP AND COLDS PROMPTLY

Make the Best Remedy at Home—128 Teaspoonful for 50 Cents.

Don't neglect your first cold, cough or any Bronchial affection, this, though but common treatment immediately and through using the proper medicine it can be checked from the very start and promptly cured, but if neglected probably will hang on all winter; if it does not develop into something more serious, such as Pneumonia or Consumption. True, there are hundreds, yes thousands, of cough remedies on the market. While some are good, there are many which are not, but are positively harmful, due to the ingredients which they contain. But why experiment with these different remedies purely on the strength perhaps of some testimonials or on the exaggerated claims of manufacturers, when Schiffmann's New Expectorate is sold by the famous Osgood Brothers on such a positive guarantee to give perfect satisfaction, yes, even more—money will be refunded by them if it is not found the best remedy ever used in Severe Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough or Croup, and it will also be found excellent for Bronchitis, Asthma and Bronchopneumonia. Besides these advantages, guaranteeing that it will be the best remedy ever used, it will likewise be found the most economical, because one bottle (50 cents' worth) makes a full pint (128 teaspoonful) of the most excellent medicine for any of the above affections, when mixed at home with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water. It makes as much, or more, than would cost you $2.00 to $3.00 of almost any of the ordinary ready-made kinds, sold in bottles holding only 24 to 32 teaspoonful. You will be the sole judge yourself and under the same positive "Money Back" guarantee which the Osgood Brothers make for the famous Asthma Remedy. Absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy.—Advertisement.

HOW I DARKENED MY GRAY HAIR

Lady Gives Simple Home Recipe That She Used to Darken Her Gray Hair.

For years I tried to restore my gray hair to its natural color with the prepared dyes and stains, but none of them gave satisfaction and in fact they were all so expensive that I finally ran on to a simple recipe which I mixed at home that gives wonderful results. I gave the recipe, which is as follows to a number of my friends, and they are all delighted with it. To 7 ozs. of water add a small box of Barbo Compound, 1 oz. of any rum and 3 oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Use every other day until the hair becomes the required shade, then every two weeks. It will not only darken the gray hair, but removes dandruff and scalp humors, and acts as a tonic to the hair. It is not sticky or greasy, does not rub off and does not color the scalp.—Advertisement.

UNCLE WIGGILY CUTS UP FOR

KIDDIES

Pearls in Your Mouth, Written By Lillian Russell

MADAM'S teeth have been likened to pearls in the ruby setting of her lips. But the cases where they really do appear thus are few and far between.

Nothing is more agreeable than the smile of good fellowship in which the tips of shining teeth appear. Nothing is more unpleasant than a yellow-flecked smile. All its friendliness is lost upon you for you can't get your mind away from those yellow teeth—no matter how hard you try.

I know a girl who might be considered very plain. Her features are extremely so. Her eyes are rather good and they laugh to be her only distinguishing feature. But when she smiles her whole face changes. Her mouth is not particularly pretty—in fact, it is too large, but her teeth are very pretty, snowy white and gleaming, and they lend something quite different from plainness to her expression.

Few people give enough thought to their teeth—and yet they are, in a way, an index to your character. If you are dressed beautifully but your teeth show signs of neglect, the people about you will know that however neat your present appearance may be, you are really slovenly and careless. It is usually the fact that the teeth are left unattended for the rest of the body, the skin, the mouth and the interior of the body, are in equally poor condition. Your teeth won't lie. They tell exactly what sort of a person you are.

A tooth is a long bone, one end of which projects from the end of the jaw. The free part is called the crown and is covered with enamel. The bony substance of the tooth proper is dentine and is liberally supplied with nerves and blood vessels. The blood vessels from the adjacent gums supply the buried surface of the tooth and pass directly into the pulp cavity through the large root canal.

All through infancy the crowns of the permanent teeth are full sized and the buried in the soft tissues of the gums, packed about the roots of the temporary teeth and waiting for the time to begin pushing their way up.

To most people a discussion of the tooth means the dentist. Not so, if the teeth are properly cared for from babyhood; the dentist will be an unknown quantity to the child and to the man. A healthy tooth does not decay any more than any other bone in your body. The causes of decayed teeth are both local and constitutional. If the latter—there may be a lack of vital resistance of the body bacteria with which the mouth is continually swarming. The teeth of poorly nourished children particularly show decay for this reason.

The local causes of decay are the action of certain bacteria which produce lactic acid and conditions which form through the lodgment of food particles about the teeth and the activity of these bacteria. Irregular teeth, lack of cleanliness and eating too much starchy food are the conditions which cause decay.

The cause of decay is that you do not take the dentist. They should be carefully cleaned after each meal with good preparation. Powdered chalk, mixed with water, is one of the cheapest and best things to use. That every bit of surface is scrupulously clean—giving the back of the teeth the same attention as the front.

If the mouth and teeth are kept clean, there is little chance for decay. But when a tiny cavity is discovered in a tooth, or to the dentist with you. Little pain and expense will be connected with your visit. The cavity should be filled immediately.

It is left, the larger it will grow and your dentist bill will be correspondingly large. The condition of your teeth is the sign post to your character. Let your teeth be real pearls.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! See if Tongue Is Coated, Breath Hot or Stomach Sour.

"California Syrup of Figs" Can't Harm Tender Stomach, Liver Bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or—eat is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative" in a few hours all the foul, constipated, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

Uncle Wiggily And His Friends The Bushytails

(By Howard R. Garis.)

"Tap! Tap! Tap!" some one rapped on the door of the underground house where the Littlebit family of bunny rabbits lived. "Tap! Tap! Tap!"

"Come in!" invited Uncle Wiggily Longears, the rabbit gentleman, who, because his own hollow stump bungalow had burned down, had come to live with Sammie and Susie Little, the boy and girl rabbit, in their burrow. Nurse Jane, the mother-rat lady, also came with Uncle Wiggily.

The door opened. Uncle Wiggily was home all alone in the burrow that day. Nurse Jane had gone shopping with Mrs. Littlebit, Sammie and Susie were at school and Mr. Littlebit, the rabbit papa, was working in the button factory, where he crowded the holes for the needle and thread to jump through, like a circus rider in paper hoops.

In scampered Johnny Bushytail, the boy squirrel, and his brother Billie. "Hello, Uncle Wiggily!" chattered Billie. "We have come for you!"

"We're going to take you away with us," said Johnny.

"Oh, my goodness me takes alive and some peanut pancakes with marshmallow drops on!" cried the old rabbit gentleman. "Don't talk like that!"

"Take what?" asked Billie.

About coming after me to take me away," said Mr. Longears. "It sounds like the need-to-be-late to a circus, cat, or the full-pulling monkey who used to make such trouble for me. You aren't either of those unpleasant creatures, dressed up like my dear little squirrel nephews, are you?" asked Uncle Wiggily, anxious like.

"No, we are only Johnny and Billie Bushytail," answered Billie. "But we have come to see if you won't pay us a little visit. You have been with the Littlebits for some time now, since your bungalow burned, so won't you come and live with us?"

"Yes," said Uncle Wiggily kindly. "Since you want me to, I will."

So the next day Uncle Wiggily packed his things in his valises, with the red initials "U. W." on one corner, Uncle Wiggily said good-bye to Sammie and Susie, and with Nurse Jane, went to visit the Bushytails.

Of course, Sammie and Susie were sorry to see him leave, but Uncle Wiggily promised to come back.

Though before I do, I may have to go visit the Wiggible duck family," he said.

"That will be nice," Nurse Jane said. "In fact, you might like turning visiting all your animal friends."

"I will," Uncle Wiggily answered. "The Bushytail family lived in a big hollow tree. Their home was larger than Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow, but then there were more of the Bushytails, there being four of them, and Billie, their papa and mamma, cousin Jennie Chipmunk, who used to dust the shelves of the book case, and Grandpa and Grandma Rightfoot, who slept most of the day behind the stove."

"Oh, how glad we are to see you!" cried Billie. "You have been with the Littlebits to the door of the hollow tree house to let the rabbit gentleman in."

"You must be a great deal better!" chattered Johnny. "Come in! We'll have some fun."

So Uncle Wiggily played games with the squirrel boys while Nurse Jane helped Mrs. Bushytail make a nutcake for supper.

"You like nuts, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Billie, when they had finished playing a game called "Hide the Toy Squirrel." "Yes, I do," said Uncle Wiggily. "Oh, I love bickery nuts," said the rabbit gentleman.

"I am sure for you," offered Billie. "Come on, Johnny!"

The squirrel boy's mother gave them some nuts from the winter store in the hollow tree house.

"Oh, Billie and Johnny! It is very kind of you to bring me the nuts, but the squirrels are so hard I cannot crack them with my teeth."

"We'll crack the nuts for you, and pick out the meats," offered Billie, and he took up a nut in his paws, and began gnawing on the hard shell with his sharp teeth.

"I gnaw a nut too, for Uncle Wiggily," said Johnny.

"I can gnaw a larger nut than you!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"No you can't! I can open my mouth wider than you, and I can gnaw the biggest nut!" chattered Johnny, boastful like.

A queer thing to brag about, wasn't it? To see who could open his mouth farther, and, of course, they were only four squirrels.

Johnny put a big nut in his mouth and began to gnaw. He did it so little. And then a queer thing happened. Funny looks came over the faces of the three young squirrels as they saw their teeth and made, out such queer noises.

"Wah! Ca-goo-buch! Wump-up ingo!" murmured Johnny.

"Goozum! Chupzaki! Whupflee! Zurg!" chuckled Johnny.

"Oh, what are you talking?" cried Uncle Wiggily. "But I see what is the matter. You have each put such a big nut in your mouth that you can't get it out, and you can't talk plainly, can you?"

Billie and Johnny nodded their heads and tails, for they could not speak with the big nuts in their mouths.

"I wonder how I can get out the nuts?" Uncle Wiggily said. "I know. If I put a little grumpy butter-cream candy on their teeth the nuts will slip and slide out as easily as a sled slides down hill."

Then the rabbit gentleman grazed the teeth of the squirrel boys, and the nuts that were stuck in their mouths slipped out, and very glad Billie and Johnny were, for their jaws neched from holding them open so wide and so long.

Don't ever try any more mouth-opening games with nuts, said Uncle Wiggily, and the squirrel boys said they would. Next they took smaller nuts to crack for Uncle Wiggily, and the rabbit gentleman had as much nut meat as he wanted, and not cake for supper as well. And he stayed at the Bushytail hollow tree for some time.

So, if the breakfast orange doesn't roll off the table and bump the milk pitcher's nose, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily going down cellar.

GIRL TOWED MAN SHE FREES RENEW STRANGE LOVE PACT 'HE'S INNOCENT,' SHE SAYS

MISS OLIVE L. DAVIS and a facsimile of portion of contract she signed with Otis McGinnis, convict.

Olive L. Davis, knowing that you, Otis McGinnis, are entirely innocent of the charge which has been made against you, and in return of which you are about to serve a sentence of two years in the State Institution at San Quentin, do hereby faithfully and sincerely promise to become your true and loving wife as soon after your release from the said institution as is deemed practicable by both yourself and myself, and

I, Otis McGinnis, hereby promise Olive L. Davis that upon my release from the said institution, or as soon thereafter as it is possible for me to do so, I will take you, Olive L. Davis, as my wife, and that henceforth I will love, cherish and protect you, and as my wife, and that henceforth I will be obedient to the requirements of the said institution, and will go about the duties required of me as in a cheerful, Christianlike manner.

(Signed) Olive L. Davis.
(Signed) Otis McGinnis.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—This was signed by both and duly witnessed. In this document of faith and belief, the girl, who lives at 1945 East Fourth street and is employed downtown in an attorney's office, affirmed her belief in McGinnis' innocence and vowed to become his wife as soon after his release as he deemed practicable.

And McGinnis pledged himself to take her as his wife and to love, cherish and protect her, as well as to obey all requirements of the penitentiary and to go about whatever duties were required of him in a cheerful, Christianlike manner.

Then began the long separation. The girl, who had been waiting for McGinnis' return, even without the added support of their contract, exchanged letters, and in a few weeks virtually renewed the extraordinary pact into which they had entered.

HE TURNS TO TOIL. McGinnis, true also to the pledge he

President's Wife Violates Anti-Tip Law—but She Won't Be Held

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 3.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the president, violated the Iowa anti-tipping law, but she will escape prosecution. The First Lady of the Land, after dinner at the Hotel Chamberlain, gave Peggy Connors, head waitress, a $5 gold piece, which Miss Connors accepted, although she said today she knew both she and Mrs. Wilson were breaking the law and making themselves liable to prosecution. However, Miss Connors does not fear prosecution, as she is aware she will escape along with her distinguished companion, and she has no intention of reporting the matter to the authorities.

The law provides a fine of $25 or ten days in jail for both the giver and receiver of a tip, but local officials said tonight, they guessed nothing would be done in this case.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Feb. 3.—In performing research work in preparation for her master's degree from the Stanford university department, Miss Serena Phillips of Palo Alto, a senior, has discovered a "protococcine." It is said to be a very interesting and startling discovery in the way of a new organism.

Miss Phillips has been specializing in fresh water algae. Her discovery may be either a new species or a new plant. The actual classification of the new organism has not yet been decided upon.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 3.—Guy Bates Post, leading man in "Onna, the Tent Maker," playing here this week, married Miss Adela Ritchie, the musical comedy actress, in Cooke's Presbyterian church yesterday. There were no bridal guests. After luncheon Post left his bride to play his matinee.

Some three months ago, Mrs. Davis, knowing that McGinnis would be eligible for parole when half of his term was completed, quietly began working for his release. She wrote many letters in his behalf, interesting as many people as the letters she wrote, and as a reward, she received official notification yesterday that her sweetheart would be freed in time to meet her here today.

She said yesterday: "Oh, it was a bitter experience for us both. It was a long hard wait, but it was worth it. I knew at the time of his trial and I know now that Otis is absolutely innocent. I never for a moment doubted it. My faith in him and his faith in me have made us during his imprisonment. I would have waited for him ten years or as many more as might have been necessary."

"Yes, I know that former Warden J. W. San Quentin said that in three years a woman will forget a man who has been sent to prison. And I believe that is true in the majority of cases, but our case is not one of this category."

A WIDOW BLAMED. "I don't care to mention names, but Otis' trouble was caused by a wealthy widow who wrote, and as a result, he was imprisoned for four years and she was disappointed when he became engaged to me. Then she grew jealous and caused the charges to be brought against Otis."

"Why, it was only two weeks ago, I was told, that she was making brass that she would block any attempt to obtain Otis' parole, but we've fooled her. And now he's coming back to me and a wedding is waiting him here with the real estate firm where he can take up again his old line of work."

And now, we've decided, as we pledged in our old contract."

Babies Laughed Painlessly Into Life Under New Surgery

The "Gas Baby" is a better baby than the "Twilight Sleep Baby," he has a better chance to live.

So declare physicians in advocating the latest method of painless child birth—operation by "Twilight Sleep," which is being performed with far less danger and now is announced as a success. Local physicians who are using the new method, which consists of the administration of nitrous oxide (laughing gas) and oxygen to the patient.

In the process, according to the physicians using the method, the patient feels no pain, but on the contrary is not under the same strain that follows the administration of "Twilight Sleep," which is being an internally-taken drug, cannot be controlled.

The nitrous oxide method is not new. It was tried first in 1865 in San Francisco. At the county infirmary Dr. C. A. Willis and other physicians have tried it during recent years. Dr. Willis, who is the inventor of the system, was a physician in a big hospital in Cleveland, Ohio, and at the recent session of the American Medical Association told in detail of his work. Since then local physicians have been experimenting extensively with the preparation.

CHILD FIRST IN RECORDS. Mary Margaret Ticey is said to be the first child brought into the world by the new treatment. She was born in St. Francisco Hospital in San Francisco in April, 1915. Dr. H. C. Tuckey and Dr. Carl Hoag handled the case. Since then a large number of cases have been seen in the use of "analgesia," as the system is called.

The gas is given in the same manner as in dentistry.

"It can be properly administered only by an expert anesthetist," said Dr. Tuckey yesterday, "but, so administered, I am willing to guarantee that childbirth can be made painless in every case if the mother does not prove obstreperous."

"There is no danger to either mother or child, and no bad after effects as in 'Twilight Sleep,' where it takes several days to get rid of the drug's influence."

"I have tried to keep this method within the profession, but the mothers who have experienced it are so happy over it that they want to shout it from the housetops."

ACID IN STOMACH, SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid Is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation. Then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which irritate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then feel that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four or five grains of acid salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescent, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the fermenting mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

And salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salt is used in thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—Advertisement.

Commission to Wait For Public Sentiment

SAN JOSE, Feb. 3.—After taking testimony for several days in regard to the application of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, for a franchise for a new route through San Jose, the railroad company, adjourned to meet again here in a month, when public sentiment will have crystallized and civic organizations will be able to state just what the city and county want. Commissioner Alex Gardner, who presided, stated that he would hesitate to make an order for a franchise which would not provide for a franchise for the city and county. He stated that he would not make an order for a franchise which would not provide for a franchise for the city and county. He stated that he would not make an order for a franchise which would not provide for a franchise for the city and county.

Aged Professor Is Rescued From Hills

SAN JOSE, Feb. 3.—After wandering for two days without food and shelter, August Wernecke, aged 76, former professor of languages at the University of California, was rescued from the hills near San Jose. He was found by a hiker and taken to the home of relatives in Los Gatos. It is said today that he is ill but that his condition is not serious. Professor Wernecke had left his home about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. The weather has been bitterly cold and snow was searching the mountains around Los Gatos in the belief that he might have died of exposure.

Dempsey Is President of Vallejo Chamber

VALLEJO, Feb. 3.—The newly chosen directors of the Vallejo Chamber of Commerce have elected the following officers: Dr. R. R. Dempsey, president; M. J. Grice, first vice-president; J. M. McLaughlin, second vice-president; and George R. Cason, treasurer. The chamber was organized on Monday night, Feb. 2, at the home of Mrs. J. M. Grice. The chamber will have its first meeting on Friday night, Feb. 4, at the home of Mrs. J. M. Grice.

DIES AT THROTTLE.
SAN JOSE, Feb. 3.—E. A. Taylor, engineer of the San Luis Obispo train No. 23, Southern Pacific, died at the throttle as the train was pulling out of Sallinas. The fireman brought the train into Watsonville Junction. Taylor had been in the employ of the Southern Pacific for twenty years. His home was in San Francisco.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to eat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, flatulent stomach, you must bathe on the inside with water before breakfast. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

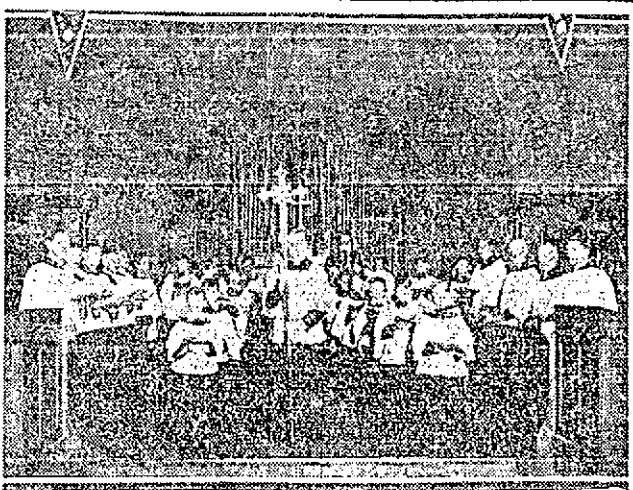

Take a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish twinge which is unpleasant. Drink phosphate hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.—Advertisement.

TAPERS SHED GENTLE LIGHT AT CANDLEMAS FESTIVAL

VESTED CHOIR OF ST. JOHN'S (ANGELICAN) CHURCH, WHICH AIDED IN CELEBRATION OF CANDLEMAS.

Crowds thronged into St. John's Episcopal church, Eighth and Grove streets, last night to celebrate the ancient festival of Candlemas as banded down from the early days of the church. The services began at 7:45 o'clock with a solemn procession of clergy, acolytes and vested choir, all bearing candles. Following the blessing of the candles by the Rev. Father Irving Spencer, the rector, each member

Musicians Honor the Memory of Perlet

Resolutions in honor of the memory of Herman Perlet, director of the Columbia Park Boys' Band, the San Francisco Philharmonic orchestra, and other musical organizations, who died recently have been adopted by the local Musicians' union, branch No. 5, of the American Federation of Musicians.

The resolutions follow: "Whereas, It has pleased the Supreme Ruler of the universe, in His infinite wisdom, to take away from us our most highly esteemed and distinguished brother member, Herman Perlet, and

"Whereas, We cannot but feel that in his untimely taking off the musical profession of this city and vicinity has suffered a distinct loss and our own organization is poorer by the passing hence of one who, in his lifetime, was ever ready to give and did give freely and unselfishly his services for the uplift and benefit of his fellow members without thought or hope of gain or remuneration. Therefore be it

"Resolved, That we extend our deepest regret and most heartfelt sympathy to his family and sorrowing family in their hour of bereavement; and be it further

Girl Rescues Her Baby Brother From Floods

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 3.—Moses Wilkes, 3-year-old son of a Sweetwater ranchman, had a far rougher time in the flood than did his Biblical namesake among the builders, according to a story received to-day. When the flood waters began to rush down the Sweetwater valley, the mother of Moses placed him on an improvised life raft.

The raft was built near the edge of the river and Moses deposited on a mattress. While the family waited for the house to be rescued, a home and a cow with a newborn calf, and started the raft and Moses down stream.

The sister of Moses realized what had happened and racing down the banks, kept the raft in sight until it touched shore, when she rescued Moses. It was necessary for the girl to walk miles with Moses in her arms to reach shelter. Dejected both children lost Mrs. Wilkes collapsed and is now reported seriously ill.

A unique livestock rescue was reported by the navy expedition in Otay valley. Rowing up to a barn that had drifted ashore this party found inside, alive and healthy, a cow with a newborn calf. All three were removed to safety.

Y. W. C. A. Pioneers to Tell of Early Work

The second big event in the local celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the national Young Women's Christian Association will take place next Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, when many of the early leaders will deliver reminiscence addresses and the first Congregational church choir will sing. This will be "Pioneers' Day."

Mrs. Evelyn Browne Reek will preside over the program, introducing among the speakers, Mrs. W. H. Hamilton, a charter member, and Mrs. Ellen Wenden, for twenty years a secretary of the association. Mrs. W. E. Sharon, Mrs. C. C. Clay, Miss Mabel Thayer Gray and Mrs. John P. Ames will also speak, describing the early work they participated in. Outstanding will be Mrs. Lydia B. Sadler, who will read the Serenity prayer, and Dr. E. R. Dille, who will offer the prayer. Supplementing the choruses of the vested choir under the direction of Eugene Blanchard there will be several tenor and soprano solos.

Welfare Union Will Improve Methods

Details of the first anniversary celebration to be held by the Co-Operative Welfare Home will be arranged this evening at the institution, 823 Filbert street. The affair is to take place on February 17th, and will be public.

Another business to be considered will be improvement of the means of finding employment for the destitute women who come to the home for aid, and a rummage sale to take place toward the end of the month.

A Mother's Peace.
If every expectant mother would get Mother's Friend from her drug-gist and would apply this wonderful external remedy and valuable help as directed, she would soon experience comfort and peace of mind. For many years this time-tried remedy has been used and strongly endorsed by experienced mothers, for it is the one safe, dependable remedy that penetrates to relieve all strain on nerves, cramps, ligaments and all parts of the body. It makes the muscles expand naturally and stops pain.

MEDICINE CHESTS NOW AGAINST LAW

Washington Prohibition Stops Alcohol Rums and Turkish Baths.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 3.—The sale of alcohol and other medicinal ingredients to ships for their medicine chests, which federal regulations require must be stocked with this class of "wet goods," will be prohibited as a result of the interpretation placed on the prohibition law by a conference of prosecuting attorneys.

The question of how much liquor a preacher may have in his possession for sacramental purposes was left undecided, although the opinion was that he should be limited to the amount the law allows other individuals. The question of how hospitals are to obtain their supplies of alcohol was left to be decided by each prosecuting attorney. The new law, it was decided, has not repealed the local option laws relative to delivery of liquor. Rumor's ruling that one may lawfully possess the maximum quantity of alcohol for medicinal purposes is permitted to stand. Action was taken forbidding druggists to ship alcohol outside of the state. This means that no alcohol may be sent to Alaska. Two social affairs will be held at the institution must get formal permits for alcohol and beer with each establishment are prohibited from getting supplies of alcohol for massage purposes. The attorneys agreed to exercise "caution" in searching private homes and seizing liquor.

Hayward Foresters to Buy Uniforms

HAYWARD, Feb. 3.—Many social events are scheduled for the first part of this month. Here are some of the principal gatherings: Court Hayward, Foresters of America will give a hard time to the city and county in the Bank of Hayward hall. The proceeds will be taken in purchasing uniforms for the drill team and the public has been invited. Another big event will be the ball to be held by Company H, National Guard, in connection with their inspection February 11.

Company H Is to Be Inspected

HAYWARD, Feb. 3.—That Company H, 1st Infantry, National Guard, may have a full quota of men for the federal inspection February 11, a recruiting office has been established here. Several men who have been in the federal army, recently joined Company H. Among them are W. E. Huley, a former first sergeant in the United States army; Lieutenant Gray, a native of California; and Horace L. Brown, an ex-cavalryman. All government property such as trench diggers, tents and rifles are being put into shape by the company quartermaster and the recently enlisted men are being fitted with uniforms.

Mrs. Truesdell Will Be Buried Tomorrow

SAN LEANDRO, Feb. 3.—The funeral will take place tomorrow morning of Mrs. Milla B. Truesdell, widow of Weston P. Truesdell, who died last night. She is survived by a brother and two sisters: M. C. Enos, Mrs. Mary H. Kelley and Mrs. Margaret Ryan. Her husband, who was found dead a year ago, when he succumbed suddenly to an attack of pneumonia, was well known to the community and as founder of a local newspaper.

Professor Pfund Will Discuss Boy Scouts

PHOENIX, Feb. 3.—What the Boy Scout movement has accomplished will be related by Professor C. F. Pfund, physical director of the Oakland schools, at a meeting of the W. P. Erick School Parent-Teachers' association tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. Mrs. C. D. Johnston, president of the association, will be chairman of the meeting, which will be held in the school assembly hall.

Alta Mira Women to Tell of "Tund"

SAN LEANDRO, Feb. 3.—How they raised money for the new clubhouse fund will be told by members of the Alta Mira Club at the next regular meeting on the afternoon of Monday, February 14. As there are no members in the club and each will tell the story of her experiences the session will be one of the longest and most interesting of the season.

Many new members have been adopted by the club members, including the running of their own luxurious autos as they drive.

Newman Estate to Be Basis of Contest

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 3.—The will of the late Colonel George S. Newman, former wealthy Denver clubman, with large mining and stock interests, is to be probated in the Arapahoe county court and testimony is to be taken concerning his relations prior to his marriage with Miss Edna Joslin, his nurse, according to a ruling in district court yesterday. She and Colonel Newman were married at Los Angeles, April 15, 1915, about three months before his death, and she sought to prevent the probating of the will and the taking of testimony under a petition for a writ of prohibition. The court sustained a motion to quash the petition filed by counsel for relatives of Colonel Newman, who are seeking to prevent the widow from receiving a share of the estate.

A protest against the issuance of letters of administration to Mrs. Newman, shortly after Colonel Newman's death, charged that she had exercised undue influence over the aged man prior to their marriage and that he was suffering from "senile dementia."

Grass Valley to Aid Sufferers

GRASS VALLEY, Feb. 3.—Aroused by the desperate condition of the Jews in the eastern war zone in Europe, local citizens have organized a relief committee. Several benefits are being arranged and already many voluntary subscriptions have been received. Samuel Gottlieb and L. Stein are at the head of the movement and it is announced that several hundred dollars will be raised before the end of the week.

THE BLACKMAIL TREATY AGAIN.

The blackmail money to be paid the Republic of Colombia, in accordance with the proposal originated during the present administration by President Wilson and former Secretary of State Bryan, has been reduced from $25,000,000 to $15,000,000. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee reported the proposed treaty between the United States and Colombia favorably yesterday with this change by an eight to seven vote.

Therefore the administration has not ceased to put a price on dishonor and political holdups; it merely knocks off a paltry ten million from the price first quoted. It still insists upon saying that we should not have built the Panama Canal and upon forcing the government to submit to the despicable demands of an unscrupulous Latin-American dictator.

A more infamous and unworthy effort to discredit the government than this Bryan-Wilson scheme has never been made. It would have the government say that the people of Panama—or any liberty-loving people—had no right to throw off the yoke of tyranny and oppression, that the people of Panama had no right to accept payment from the United States for their own land and other property, and that the United States should pay more to Colombia than that country asked for.

The treaty would have this country say in effect that Colombia suffered by the separation of the territory now comprising Panama and that we are responsible for Colombia's misfortune. It would have us subscribe to a craven and wanton lie and besmirch the history of the world's greatest achievement with false admissions of crookedness.

The facts concerning American-Panama-Colombian relations are pretty generally known. The administration at Washington is thoroughly informed as to their character, because all the records are on file. Panama won its independence in 1821 and entered the federation of the United States of Colombia in 1861 by an agreement by which it reserved full sovereign rights and which were confirmed in the constitution adopted at Bogota in 1863. In 1883 these rights were arbitrarily taken away and Panama was made an unwilling vassal state through military force, and in accordance with a new constitution promulgated by a dictator. In subsequent years there were thirteen revolutions, the fourteenth and final one being successful in November, 1903.

In the meantime the American government had negotiated with the French Canal company to buy its property for forty million dollars and with Colombia to buy land concessions for a "canal zone" for ten million dollars. Expert investigators appointed by Congress recommended that if we could obtain the Panama route for this fifty million dollars we adopt it instead of the Nicaragua route, then under consideration. The price to be paid to Colombia was fixed by that government and a treaty was negotiated in accordance with Colombia's terms. Dictator Marroquin, who had assumed the presidency after first imprisoning the legally elected president, and who had dictated, through his emissary, Herrin, the terms of the treaty, convened Congress at Bogota to consider the treaty. Dominating this Congress to the last man he had it unanimously repudiate the agreement his personal agents had made. This after, we had, relying upon Marroquin's good faith, bought the French company's rights and paid forty million dollars for them. It was a treacherous attempt to hold us up for a much larger sum, but not more reprehensible than the present attempt at blackmail.

When Panama, by her successful revolution, acquired sovereignty over the Isthmus, and after the de facto independent government was recognized, we paid Panama the ten million dollars we had agreed to pay Colombia. There was no other just course for any nation to pursue. Honorable Elihu Root, former secretary of state, described this act thus: "By all the principles of justice among men and among nations that we have learned from our fathers and all peoples and all governments should maintain, the revolutionists in Panama were right, the people of Panama were entitled to be free again, the Isthmus was theirs and they were entitled to govern it; and it would have been a shameful thing for the government of the United States to return them again to servitude."

Yet the administration would say just the opposite. And it would loot the national treasury of fifteen million dollars to give to political grafters at Bogota and call it tribute to Latin-American friendship. President Wilson and his Democratic supporters would traduce their own nation. They would advertise the fact that all Latin-American governments place a premium upon treachery and dishonor. Beside paying the fifteen million blackmail (reduced from twenty-five million) they would make an "apology" to the Bogota dictatorship for not submitting to the holdup earlier. The treaty strikes at our national honor and should be condemned by every patriotic citizen.

MILITARY LECTURES.

The series of lectures on national preparedness by army officers, which was opened with the address before the members of the Chamber of Commerce by Major-General J. Franklin Bell yesterday, will be of great benefit to all who may hear them. Army officers, by the nature of their profession and employment, deal in facts. They have no theories to exploit. They contemplate possible emergencies and the tasks to be performed in relation thereto and then they give us accurate information, so far as that is possible to obtain, as to what is necessary in the performance of their duties.

Information is what the business man wants. Facts are preferred to speculation by every interested citizen. In this series of lectures it is possible to entirely dissociate from your mind the idea that the country is facing somewhat excitedly the question of providing increases in national defenses. We may view it as an educational opportunity in the matter of defense, provided by professional men who are not influenced by the present issues between propagandists and politicians.

The army man, it is true, always has had decided opinions, dictated by fairly complete knowledge of all pertinent data, as to the desirability of adequate defenses. But he has and always will leave the question of policy to others. Given certain problems of defense he sets to work ascertaining what is required. And this is the most important phase of the question of preparedness. That every nation should make itself secure against assault from a foreign enemy is accepted by everyone; an overwhelming majority are of the opinion that it is better to provide security by force than to rely upon pretty sentiments and soft words. What we want to know now is what is necessary to give us adequate armed preparedness against the potential dangers that threaten. While we may not deem it best to rely upon the army man's view to the exclusion of all others, we cannot get a correct perspective without the benefit of the professional viewpoint. It is a big help in the study of the vital question of preparedness and indispensable to an intelligent conclusion.

THE NEW IMMIGRATION BILL.

The immigration bill with which the House committee on immigration is wrestling contains the literacy test as its principal basis. This feature caused President Taft and President Wilson to veto previous bills which Congress passed to regulate the admission of aliens to the country. In its original form the present bill provided for the exemption of Mexicans, Canadians and Cubans from the literacy test, but these exemptions have been stricken out in the committee. It is almost certain that President Wilson will veto any immigration bill passed that contains a literacy test. He stated his attitude of mind on this subject quite emphatically during the last session of Congress and there is no good reason to assume that it has been included among the numerous other matters on which he has changed his mind.

Friends of the present bill claim that they have enough support in Congress to pass the bill over the President's veto, and are busy lining up their forces for this performance. The effort to override the President's veto in the last session failed by only a few votes and it may be that the outlook on after-war effects has won sufficient additional friends to so enact it at the present session. The enactment of an immigration law with a literacy test cannot fail to have an important bearing on immigration in California and particularly the so-called Japanese question. The elimination of the exemptions originally proposed will serve to reduce the danger of diplomatic objections to the law.

With the opening of the first municipal exhibit of fine arts, Oakland marks another advance in civic progress. It provides a notable addition to the educational facilities of the community for both young and old and creates a new article in our declaration of artistic and social independence. The community that provides all the requirements of all its members is modern and metropolitan, and Oakland is rapidly establishing its claims to the name "metropolis."

George Bernard Shaw has earned a reputation as a mocker, and it is difficult to take him seriously. Still, when he tells how England dwelt in a fool's paradise for a generation while another country was steadily getting ready, for which supineness England is now paying so dreadfully, he seems to be worthy of serious attention.

NOTES and COMMENT

Oakland's garbage problem is about the biggest matter now up for solution.

The Salinas man who was blown up by a fire explosion at least disclosed a new way of getting hurt.

It was the fire that destroyed a Richmond apartment house Tuesday night.

DANIELS SHOULD GO.

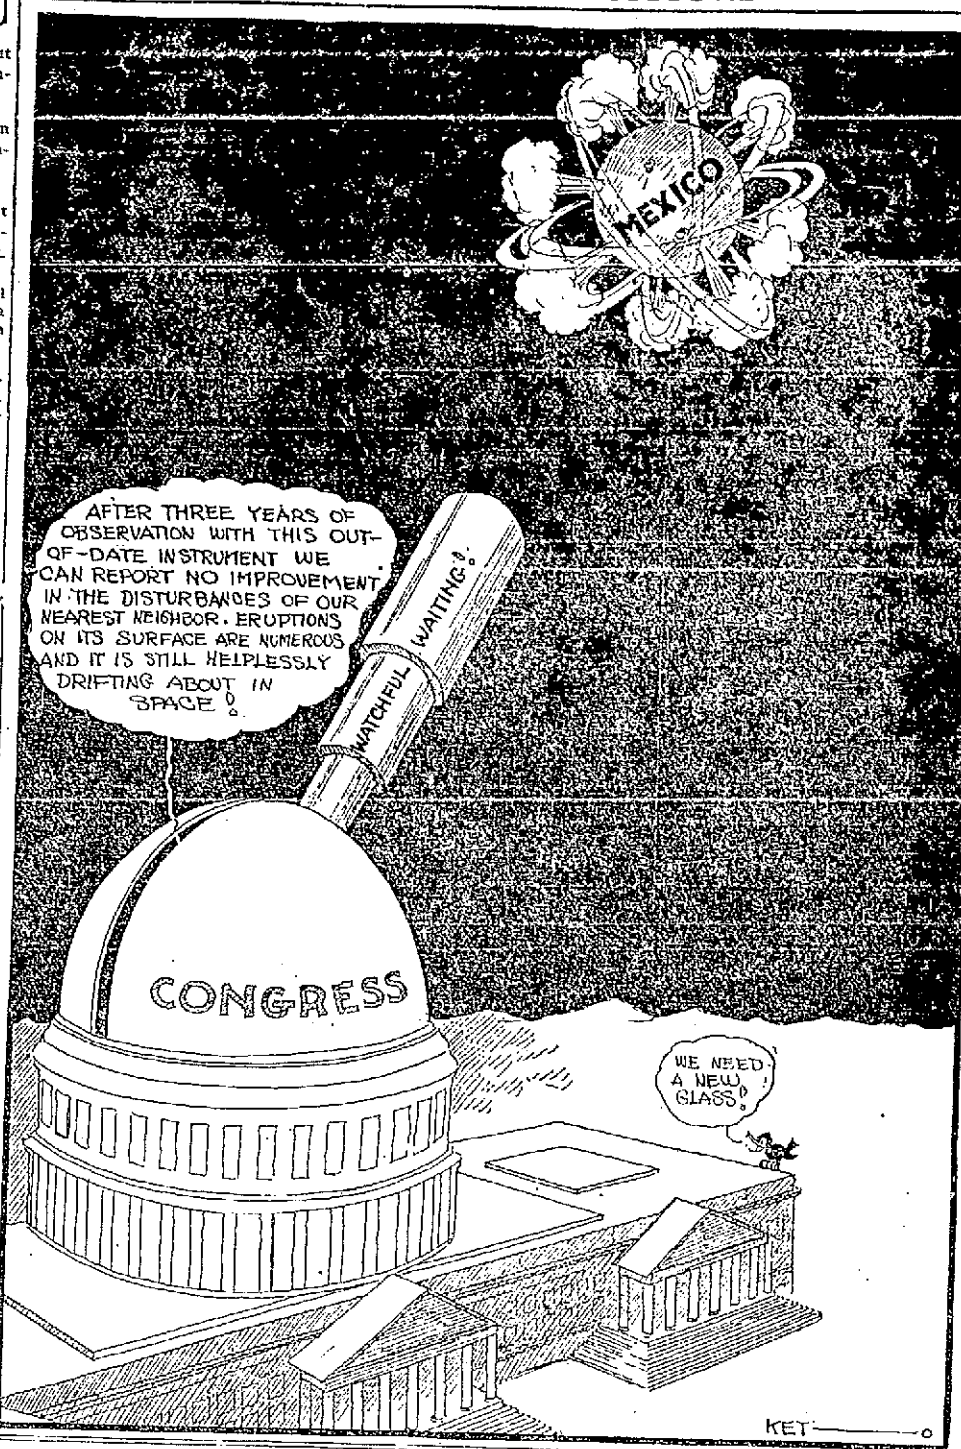

The publication of the confidential report of Rear Admiral Fletcher, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, will serve two purposes. It will reveal exactly the situation that exists in the navy, and it will explain why Secretary Daniels is seeking to get all navy officers.

What Admiral Fletcher has reported Bradley A. Fiske knew and called to Mr. Daniels' attention. Rear-Admiral Fletcher performed the same service. Because Admiral Fiske has testified before Congress to such conditions as Admiral Fletcher now reports he was sent away from Washington. He was sent into exile at Newport and he was forbidden to come to Washington, although his invalid wife was there.

"You may not say that two and two make four," Mr. Daniels said to Rear-Admiral Fiske. This is the spirit and the method of the present secretary of the navy. This is the treatment those who serve their country and would serve their country must expect. Unquestionably steps will now be taken to discipline Rear-Admiral Fletcher. He, too, has committed the unpardonable fault—he also has told the truth.

The Tribune joins its neighbors, the Sun, in the demand that Mr. Daniels be retired. It is at once a joke and a tragedy. Perhaps a president, like a sovereign, is entitled to a court fool, but certainly the nation is entitled to ask that the court fool be not placed in charge of its first line of defense.—New York Tribune.

TAKING OBSERVATIONS

PREPAREDNESS

Speech of the Honorable James R. Mann, Minority Leader in the House of Representatives

(The following speech created a profound impression in Congress and has been widely discussed in the newspapers of the country. It has been taken as a promise of the solid support of the Republicans in Congress to national defense increases.)

It is well known in the house that I never have been a believer in a large standing army, and I suppose that I have been sometimes referred to as the "little army man." But wise men ought to be able to peer, maybe indistinctly, into the future, and to prepare today for what may come tomorrow. The world is in the most anomalous condition which mankind has ever seen. The greatest struggle of all the ages is going on now between the most powerful forces of the human race, between great nations and combinations of nations, until we are the only large, powerful nation not yet involved in that struggle. It is a break-up in the world, each side not merely fighting for its own existence, as it believes, but, as it seems to me, each side is fighting with the determination to put the other side, as it were, out of business. We have never had such a thing in the world before, with the same powerful influences at work.

It may be that we will have no trouble. I hope not. In this war I am neutral. I think we ought to maintain peace at all hazards. And yet the time may come when we will not have the determination whether we can maintain peace or not, because, however much we may desire peace, it is not within our power, with the feelings which we have, to stand aggression too far. It will be expensive to prepare for peace. Two years ago a billion dollars seemed a very large sum of money. No one would have believed two years ago that either England or Germany could carry on a war at the expense already involved, amounting to billions of dollars, an expense so great that the interest on the indebtedness would be sufficient ordinarily to maintain the government work. And the end of that indebtedness is not in sight. What may come out of such immense burdens of debt in these countries, even when peace may be declared, no one can tell. Revolutions are not improbable, and revolutions in the history of the world have usually led to aggression and disputes, and often to war with other countries. We can better afford today to spend hundreds of millions of dollars, or a few billions of dollars, in ample preparation for trouble, and avoid it if possible, than we can to wait for trouble and then spend untold billions before we are finally victors, as we would be, if we are involved in no trouble we will be getting off cheaply with the expenditures for preparation. If we should be involved in trouble the money we spend now will be spent many fold that which we would spend after the trouble began.

I know the gentlemen are sincere in their belief that there will be no trouble. I sympathize with those who prefer to spend the money of the people in the way of investment and aid for our own people at home rather than for the support of idle armies or navies. But when trouble does come, if it should come, there would be no dissenting voice against spending all our means, if necessary, to defend our country and our homes, and it were wise for us now, it seems to me, to begin our preparation.

I do not intend to discuss the details, though I have reached the conclusion myself that it were well, as an emergency measure, to increase our regular army to 550,000, or 600,000, or even half a million men; that we should increase or provide our fortifications so that our coasts may be fairly, amply protected, and that we should provide a navy which will be able to defend us on the sea. I have much more fear in the end of war with England than I have of war with Germany. Events are coming rapidly in the world. We may sit by and wait in contentment, and yet it is our duty, as the managers of a great country and a powerful people, to provide for their protection against possibilities as well as against certainties. I think, then, that we ought to provide these great forces, that it ought to be considered as an emergency matter, entirely apart from the ordinary routine or expense of government, without regard to partisanship or party lines. If England and France and Germany and Italy can consider their problems without party lines, a country like ours ought to be able to sweep aside mere partisan considerations and try all to stand together, loyal to the country, in the effort to aid the administration of the government.

I have spoken thus very briefly, not with rhetoric or fancy phrase, because it seems to me that if there ever was a time in the history of our country when we ought to invite and receive expressions of opinion from all sides, this is one of the times, with a firm determination that out of it we will bring results; a combination of the opinions of all, without expressing the views of any, which we and all of our people may stand for, that we may uphold in the future our national honor and our national integrity, and, it seems to me, possibly our modern civilization, which I fear may break down on the other side of the water. Let us try to think what is for the best of our country, what we would do if we had, each one, the supreme authority and responsibility, if it were placed upon each one to determine whether he would take the chance of disaster in the future, or prepare now to prevent that disaster.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The State Board of Prison Directors has inaugurated a move which will be watched by those interested in prison reform work. It is nothing more or less than an effort in a small way, at present, to effect a change in the system of allowing prisoners to be intermingled without regard to age or the moral turpitude disclosed in the crime of the felon.

DESIGNING EXPLOSIVE SHELLS.
The design and construction of high explosive shells used by the different nations differ in details and explosives used, but the primary object is the same for all—to demolish trenches, earthworks and fortifications. While shrapnel is fired with awful destructive effect upon troops in open formation, it is of little use when the enemy is concealed behind earthworks or in trenches. Then the shell that bursts on impact and blows the defenses into fragments is needed.

NEW SCHOOL FOR STATE'S BLIND PUPILS

State Institution Is Plan of Board of Control

Berkeley Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb Children

It was definitely decided last evening by the directors of the California Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind that the deaf and blind departments of the school should be separated. Where the removed branch should be located and which branch should be removed were left to decision which will be made before October when the state budget for next year is to be drawn up. The machinery for the proposed separation of the two departments is afforded in a bill passed by the last legislature. This gives the board of control the right to separate the two departments and to find a location for which ever is taken away from the present Berkeley site.

Directors present last evening were: J. W. Jenkins, president of the board; J. E. Nichols, William Nat Friend and Colonel Frank W. Marston, L. E. Atkinson, principal of the institution, also attended the session. The fifth director, Professor David P. Barrows, is absent in Europe.

While the directors discussed at length the proposal that the blind department should be removed to the San Francisco Normal School site after that school has completed the California building on the exposition grounds, they were not in favor of accepting the proposal at this time. Other sites, two said to be on the side of the bay, were also under consideration. The secretary of the board was directed to lay the needs of the institution before various local chambers of commerce, and others as far south as Los Angeles, to learn if a site were available at any of these places.

Proposals to move either one or other of the departments, instead of particularly the blind, were also considered. If the blind department were removed the directors considered that a site of four to thirty acres should be secured. Four buildings would be needed to start, dormitories for the boys and the girls, a school building and a building for the dining rooms and kitchen. If it were decided to remove the deaf and dumb department from 100 acres to 320 acres would be needed. The former department could occupy a suburban site, but a rural district would have to be altered to accommodate a deaf and dumb school. There are 100 pupils in the former, 200 in the latter department.

According to Principal Milligan several reasons present themselves for the separation of the two departments. "The site at the head of Parker street, owing to the growth of the city, does not longer afford room for both branches. The two buildings have nothing in common so far as their interests are concerned, the students in each cannot communicate with the students in the other, and he believes the separation would prevent the recurrence of friction which has arisen because of these facts."

Creditors Lose Fight Against Stock Sale

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—Overriding protests, Superior Judge Sewall today granted the petition of Frank J. Symmes, receiver of the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company, to sell 27,722 shares of Western Pacific Railway stock belonging to the defendant banking institution for any price he could obtain.

In May, 1912, Judge Sewall issued an order for the sale of this railroad's stock at $10 a share or more. The opponents of the new authorization, represented by Attorney J. J. Brown, contended that the stock should have been sold when it would have brought the higher price.

The court said that some of the securities had been sold at $10 and over, but that a block had been held for a better price. Judge Sewall held that Symmes had done what he believed to be most advantageous for the depositors.

MURPHY REFUSES TO PAY BILL TWICE

San Diego Exposition Wants Too Much, Supervisor Asserts.

Spirited protest against charges for electrical installation at the San Diego exposition, which Chairman D. J. Murphy of the Board of Supervisors declared were paid for a year ago, culminated today's session of the committee of the whole of the Board of Supervisors. The charges were made in a letter from Constantin J. C. Hayes, who wrote that the county was asked to pay $5 for installation of a meter, $13 for the meter (ten per cent to be deducted on the refund for depreciation) and a deposit of $8.50.

"This looks like a new invention to get money out of the county," declared Murphy. "I know this meter was installed last year and paid for. Because they are running the fair another year they want to collect all over again."

"We are paying for something already there and paid for, for we paid Santa Clara county for its share," said Purchasing Agent John Sabin.

The matter was laid over a week for investigation.

Chairman Murphy today announced that he had refused to sign the lease authorized for the old Chamber of Commerce building, to be used as an exhibit of manufactured goods and factories, on the ground that the building is not in repair.

The roof needs fixing, and so do the furnace and other things," he said, "and I will not sign that lease until by inspection I find that everything is in good condition."

Officials of the Chamber of Commerce will hurry the repairs, and it is probable that the lease can be signed by next week.

The board considered the report of Lieutenant Colonel Thomas H. Rees on repairs needed to put the county bridges in shape, especially in regard to the Fruitvale and Webster-street bridges.

The report urged a different method of converting the power-carrying trolley. No action was taken, the matter being referred to the county surveyor for investigation.

Annexation Campaign Starts at Richmond

RICHMOND, Feb. 3.—A campaign for the call of an election to annex territory south of Richmond to the Alameda county line, including the towns of Rust and Steel Junction, has been started by the Richmond Chamber of Commerce. It is planned to have the election some time this coming summer, after the contracts for the improvement of the San Pablo highway have been awarded.

Two years ago Richmond held an election which resulted in the annexation of a large strip of territory along the bay shore, reaching to the Alameda county line. The populous districts along San Pablo avenue, however, were not included in the election. Chamber of Commerce officials are declaring that there is every chance for success at the forthcoming election, saying that the residents of Steel Junction and Rust favor the annexation scheme.

ABANDON SINKING JAPANESE LINER

Takata Maru, Newest Idea in Vessels, Sinks Following Collision.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The new Japanese steamer Takata Maru, in collision Tuesday night with the American oil tank steamer Silver Shell, about 200 miles southeast of Cape Race, N. E., was abandoned in a sinking condition after her crew was transferred safely to the Silver Shell, according to a wireless message received here last night from Captain Moses of the wrecked vessel.

Officials of the Anchor line, representing the owners of the Japanese vessel, who received the message from Captain Moses, announced that their steamer California, which left here Monday for Glasgow, had been directed by wireless to overtake the Silver Shell and stand by in case of emergency.

The Silver Shell, although in no immediate danger, also was damaged, but, according to Captain Moses, was proceeding to the English channel. The British tramp steamer Armonia, which sailed from New York for Bordeaux on January 28, is standing by the Silver Shell.

Wax Model Is "Identified" First Ad-Masque Prize Won

Over 50,000 little circles, carrying a picture of a pretty girl and offering a merchandise order prize for her identification in one of the big department stores of Oakland were sent out in the February bills of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, Capwell's, Kahn Bros., Taft & Penner and Marymont are tonight. The circles were an "advertising stunt" for the Chamber of Commerce Ad-Masque, and carried in addition to the photograph, information about the advertising masquerade, the costumes to be worn and the big prize being arranged.

The prize was a prize sent shoppers searching from store to store, seeking the original of the person. Girls behind counters were scrutinized, and many of the women wished they had studied more carefully the stories about amateur detectives.

A WAX FIGURE.

The prize was won last evening by Mrs. Alice L. Stockton, 1305 Park boulevard, in Capwell's department store. It was due to Mrs. Stockton's reading of the caption line to the picture that she realized that the picture might not be that of a real woman. "Nowhere in the circular is 'woman' or 'girl' mentioned. It is always 'the original of this picture,'" Mrs. Stockton found the "original" in

POMP MARKS FUNERAL OF GYPSY KING

Nomads From All Points Make Pilgrimage to Bier

Oakland is a Mecca for the Gypsy today. From every corner of the United States the nomads have been gathering here during the last two weeks. From New England, from the sunny south and from points in the Middle West and Northern States the dark-skinned fortune-tellers and horse-traders have been traveling toward Oakland.

For Steve, king of the Mitchell tribe of Gypsies, is dead. His body has been lying in state in the parlors of Cunha & Caporino at Eighth and Myrtle streets awaiting the arrival of the nomads from distant parts.

Brothers, sisters, members of the younger generation, all of whom have bowed to the will of Steve Mitchell for the last few decades, have been arriving during the week. Twice the funeral has been postponed owing to delays in the arrival of different prominent members of the tribe.

With their own tribal ceremonies, the Gypsies conducted the funeral today. There was no priest or minister other than their delegated master of ceremonies.

A brass band accompanied the remains of the king from Myrtle street to Mountain View Cemetery, where the body of Steve Mitchell was interred in a vault, prepared at considerable expense. There were twenty automobiles of the tribe, and the funeral was held at a cost of $1500 and one of the most elaborate ever held in Oakland.

King Mitchell died January 22 at 519 Union street in the district where the Gypsy band have made their headquarters since they came to Oakland for the winter.

Says Venus de Milo Is Not Standard

Due probably to the unnatural dress of ages, woman's form has changed until the form of the Venus de Milo, the knowledge of which secret that the French dressmakers in the past have been able to produce garments not other nation's modistes could match. So declares Alex. J. Waldman of New York, one of the best known clothing experts in the United States, now a visitor at the Hotel Oakland.

"American manufacturers have learned this secret now," he declares. "The forms on which women's dresses were made in the past are not before; the line of the Venus de Milo, for instance. The entire contour has changed. The Paris dressmakers knew this for years and the Americans have learned it since the war. As a result of this, the modern dress gowns that even surpass the best Parisian creations of the period before the war."

Suffering Jews Are Given Over $16,500

Oakland has raised $16,500 for the relief of the Jews in the eastern war zone, and contributions are still coming in. The fund was announced by Frederick Kahn, treasurer of the Mark Twain Relief fund of the local fund. With the sum raised in Berkeley and Alameda, the fund totals $22,000, the central relief committee in New York city.

Kahn announces that more subscriptions are coming in from the city. It is estimated that the Oakland fund alone will reach $16,500 or more. The money will be sent to the central committee with all contributions have been received.

Burglar Searches Through Six Beds Sleeping Chambers of Thirteen Ransacked

An industrious burglar turned six double beds topsy turvy in his search for money at the home of the Cavanaugh family in Alameda. The thirteen members of the Cavanaugh family occupy six large beds, and when the family left the house to attend the entertainment at the benefit of Lady Cavanaugh, the musical wonder, returning at about one o'clock, the family did not go upstairs immediately, and when they did were astonished to see that the covers and mattresses of the beds had been thrown back. It was concluded that someone, hearing of an entertainment and knowing that much of the money had been from the sale of tickets, took advantage of the absence of the entire family to ransack the house for coin. There was money in the house, but the burglars did not look in the right place, possibly thinking that the bed were the most likely hiding places.

WOMAN WINS FIGHT WHEN THUG ASSAILS

Mrs. J. W. Oswalt of Berkeley Attacked in Her Home

For several minutes Mrs. J. W. Oswalt waged desperate battle this morning with a man who attacked her in the kitchen of her home at 711 Channing way, Berkeley. Finally after he had almost bitten off two of her fingers, she freed herself from his grasp and ran screaming into the street. When the police arrived on the scene a few minutes later, summoned by neighbors, they were unable to discover any trace of her assailant. The attack happened within five minutes after the woman's husband had left for his work at a West Berkeley factory. Immediately after he had gone Mrs. Oswalt sat down in her kitchen to breakfast. A moment or two later she was startled by the opening of a door and turned to see a tall man, his face covered with a white cloth, enter. Without a word he seized her by the throat and threw her to the floor.

Mrs. Oswalt struggled with him, attempting to cry for aid, but he held his fingers gripped tightly about her throat, preventing her doing so. Mrs. Oswalt attempted to seize him, but the man caught her fingers between his teeth and fractured the bones at the joints. Finally Mrs. Oswalt shook herself free from him and ran to the street, where her screams aroused the neighbors, who informed the police.

Suffering from shock and bleeding from the injury to her hand, Mrs. Oswalt was removed to Roosevelt hospital. There she is now under treatment. In her fight she was able to denote few features of her assailant. She declares he was about 6 feet tall, wore a long brown overcoat and a slouch hat. The cloth which he had over his face, she declares, was torn night gown, which he snatched from a line in the back yard which he passed. Mrs. Oswalt is about 35 years of age. Patrolman J. C. Jones and Frank Lincoln, who were in the neighborhood at some time after the attack, but were unable to discover her assailant. Neighbors remember seeing no man of this description in the district.

APPELLATE COURT EDITS BALLOT

Title of Prohibition Initiative Is Altered Radically.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 3.—The Appellate Court of the Third District, sitting as title and ballot commission today, eliminated the words "partial prohibition" from the title of the initiative measure that will go on the November ballot. The prohibitionists who attacked the title wanted "repeal of liquor traffic" substituted, but this request was not granted. The new title as established by the Appellate Court reads as follows:

"Initiative amendment adding Article XXIV to Constitution. Defines alcoholic liquor; after January 1, 1918, prohibits its possession, gift or sale in saloon, dram shop, dive, store, hotel, restaurant, club, dance hall or other place of public resort; prohibits sale, acceptance or soliciting orders anywhere, except in pharmacy for certain purposes and by manufacturer, under delivery and quantity restrictions. Owner or manager of all such places to prevent drinking therein. Restricts transportation. Payment in internal revenue tax prima facie evidence of violation. Prescribes and authorizes punishment. Neither restricts nor limits state or local prohibition of Article XXIV of the Constitution."

Edgar M. Sheehan, secretary of the viticultural commission and representative of the grape growers, said today he was satisfied with this change.

INDUSTRY THRIVES PROMISED RAISE IN SANTA BARBARA IF KEPT SINGLE

U. S. Census Bureau Shows Rate of Manufacturing Increase.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—A preliminary statement of the general results of the census of manufacturing for Santa Barbara, Cal., has been issued by Director Sam L. Rogers of the Bureau of Census, Department of Commerce. It consists of a summary comparing the figures for 1909 and 1914, by totals, prepared under the direction of William M. Stewart, chief statistician for manufacturing.

The figures are preliminary and subject to such changes and correction as may be found necessary from a further examination of the original reports.

The census of 1914, like that of 1909, with reference to manufacturing, excluded the hand trades, the building trades and the neighborhood industries and took account only of establishments conducted under the factory system. In the last census, also, as in that for 1909, statistics were not collected for establishments having products for the census year valued at less than $500, except that reports were taken for establishments idle during a portion of the census year, or which began operation during that year, and whose products for such reason were valued at less than $500.

WHAT IT ALL MEANS.
The word "establishment" as used in the census reports may mean more than one mill or plant, provided they are owned or controlled and operated by a single individual, partnership, corporation, or other owner or operator, and are located in the same town or city.

The reports were taken for the calendar year ending December 31, 1914, whenever the system of bookkeeping permitted figures for the period to be secured, but when the fiscal year of an establishment differed from the calendar year a report was obtained for the operation of that establishment for its fiscal year falling most largely within the calendar year 1914.

PERCENTAGES OF INCREASE.

The population of Santa Barbara at the census of 1910 was 11,609 and it is estimated that it was 14,000 on July 1, 1914. The statistics represent the establishments located within the corporate limits of the city and show that the manufacturing have increased since 1909, in the order of their importance, from a percentage standpoint, the increases for several items rank as follows: Salaries, 155.0 per cent; wages, 155.1 per cent; value added by manufacture, 116.8 per cent; primary horsepower, 56.3 per cent; value of products, 54.2 per cent; value of materials, 60.8 per cent; capital, 35.3 per cent.

The capital invested, as reported in 1914, was $1,753,000, a gain of $275,000, or 15.7 per cent, over $1,478,000 in 1909. In this connection it should be stated that the inquiry contained in the census schedule calls for the total amount of capital, both owned and borrowed, invested in the business, plant, or equipment, which was employed in the conduct of manufacturing enterprises. In the last bulletin and reports the rental paid for such property will be shown separately.

COST OF MATERIALS.
In addition to the component materials which enter into the products of the establishment for the census year there are included the cost of fuel, mill supplies, and rent of power and heat. The cost of materials, however, does not include unused materials and supplies bought either for speculation or for use during a subsequent period.

The census inquiry does not include amounts paid for miscellaneous expenses, such as rent of office, royalties, insurance, ordinary repairs, advertising, traveling expenses, or allowance for depreciation.

VALUE OF PRODUCTS.
The value of products was $1,271,000 in 1914 and $818,000 in 1909, the increase being $453,000, or 55.3 per cent.

The value of products represents their selling value or price at the plants as actually turned out by the factories during the census year and does not necessarily have any relation to the amount of value for that year. The values under this head also include amounts received for work done on materials furnished by others.

The value added by manufacture represents the difference between the cost of materials used and the value of the products manufactured from them. The value added by manufacture was $676,000 in 1914 and $404,000 in 1909, the increase being $272,000, or 67.3 per cent.

The salaries and wages amounted to $578,000 in 1914 and to $238,000 in 1909, the increase being $340,000, or 155.1 per cent.

SUMMARY FOR THE CITY.

A comparative summary for the city for 1909 and 1914 follows:

Census—	1914.	1909.	Per cent of increase, 1909-1914.
Number of establishments	40	49	45.8
Employed in manufacturing	405	340	19.4

Sues Uncle When Salary Fails to Be Doubled After Agreement.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 3.—Claiming that he was promised a raise of $10 a week if he postponed his marriage and a salary discharge if he did not postpone, Mr. Norman H. Kretsch, 315 Main street, Alliance, Ohio, brought suit in common pleas court to recover the amount of the promised raise from the estate of his uncle, Leopold Newshuler.

Mr. Newshuler was formerly owner of the Economy Collar and Company, which also is made defendant. The Citizens' Savings and Trust Company is made a party defendant as executor of the Newshuler estate.

Back in September, 1903, Mr. Kretsch says in his petition, he was unmarried, working for the Economy Collar and Company for $10 a week. About this time his uncle, Leopold Newshuler, who was sole owner of the company, discovered that the plaintiff intended to marry, and the agreement was reduced to writing.

"If you will postpone your marriage a year I will raise your wages $10 a week, but if you don't put it off I will discharge you," Mr. Kretsch says in his petition. Mr. Kretsch says he agreed, and the agreement was reduced to writing.

Mr. Kretsch alleges he kept the agreement, remaining unmarried four years. Then I presented a bill for $2080—being $10 a week for four years—my bill was turned down," he says.

Mr. Kretsch sues for $2080 with interest on each $10 from the week that it was due, a total of $3222.14.

RIDGE CUT AT KNIGHTS LANDING AVERTS DEVASTATING FLOODS IN LOWER VALLEY

KNIGHTS LANDING, Feb. 3.—The Knights Landing ridge-cut work, the digging of a canal through the ridge and Reclamation District 730, has been virtually completed at a cost of $500,000 after controversy and litigation of five years' duration.

This is the announcement of Jesse Anderson, one of the largest owners of property in Reclamation District 105.

The information is also given that this cut and canal have successfully carried during the winter and up to last Saturday 210,000 acre feet of water, the run off of the foothills west of the back levee of District 105. This water has been carried into the Yolo by-pass.

If this water had been impounded, as in past years, Potomac said, it would have carried out back levees of District 105. The rainfall in the Colusa Basin this year was five inches over normal and twice the seasonal rainfall of last year. The fears that the Colusa Basin water, released through the Knights Landing cut, would flood the lower Sacramento river districts has not been fulfilled.

As a result of the practical completion of the cut and canal, the dredgers Antioch, Neptune and Peabody, Jr., which have been working in the cut for two years, have been floated out the canal through Yolo Basin into the Sacramento river through Butcher Break, above Elkhorn.

The dredger Monterey will remain in the canal for one year to raise the levees to uniform height. This work, which cost $100,000, right-of-way, will cost $100,000.

The cut has been made by the Knights Landing Ridge and Drainage district.

GRASS VALLEY, Feb. 3.—Grass

Valley is experiencing the coldest weather for many years. Monday night the thermometer dropped to 10 degrees above. Considerable damage has resulted from bursting water pipes.

RENO, Nev., Feb. 3.—Transportation facilities on the Nevada-California-Oregon railroad are still handicapped and the company is unable to say when traffic will be resumed. It is probable several days will be needed to clear the tracks of drifted snow.

Both passenger trains, one east-bound and the other west-bound, are tied up in the snow and ice, one at Havendale, the other at Willows Creek.

CARSON CITY, Nev., Feb. 3.—The deep snows of January have cut off the source of supply for feed for the game birds and rabbits of Nevada, which are dying by thousands.

This fact has led Governor Emmet D. Doyle to issue a proclamation asking the people to observe each day as "Bird Day" and to save food.

REDDING, Feb. 3.—Last night, Lassen has forgotten, it is related by persons coming from close to the volcano that every time the clouds lift so the peak can be seen a small cloud of steam or smoke is observed rising from the northeastern corner of the crater.

For weeks and weeks Mr. Lassen has been totally obscured by clouds of steam or smoke, though the clouds lifted yesterday and revealed that it was snowy white clear to the top.

ALTURAS, Feb. 3.—Fuel is running short in this city and all communication with the outside world, except by telegraph, has been cut off.

The snow is the deepest in the history of the town. Stock is doing well.

No mail has been received here for three weeks. On two nights the thermometer has registered 15 degrees below zero and the prospects are for even colder weather.

ALHURST, Feb. 3.—J. L. Zuber of Long Canyon, above Georgetown, El Dorado county, says mountain lions have killed numerous deer in that locality since the heavy snow came on.

During the past few weeks he has counted twenty-two deer lying dead in the snow, killed by lions and coyotes. Most of the carcasses were those of does.

FAIL RIVER MILLS, Feb. 3.—Owing to the heavy fall of snow in the mountains, deer and other wild animals are compelled to seek refuge around the ranches at lower levels. In some instances, coming almost into the towns.

At several men were starting out to aid a stage driver, a herd of fifty deer were encountered within half a mile of this place. The animals were unusually tame.

Two other deer were soon feeding upon a barn belonging to Fred Knott, within plain sight of town.

Five head of the elk imported from Wyoming and released in Shasta county are reported to have been seen ranging on Saddle mountain, three miles west of here. They are believed to be starving.

BECKWITH, Feb. 3.—Ed Nichols of Sierra Vista was lost in the storm all night in the last blizzard. He managed to get to Hawley, but had both feet frozen.

This saddle-horse was still in the snow and a man on snowshoes was sent out to hunt for it, two days after Nichols reached town.

This was one of the worst nights ever known in this valley. A blizzard raged all night.

Rooster Almost Old Enough for Fricassee

FULTON, Mo., Feb. 3.—At the home of Milton Brewer is a rooster reputed to be 18 years old. The members of the family say they know that is his exact age, because he was given to Mike Brewer, a son, while the family was living in the Hutton neighborhood when Mike was less than one year old, and he is past 18 now. The rooster is of mongrel type, but looks like a Buff Orpington.

The Brewers do not know how to chase him, except that he has a strain of fighting blood in him. He has been a fighter all his life and according to the records has never been vanquished by an adversary. The rooster is very light in weight, but is sprightly. The claws on his toes have disappeared. His spurs still have grown to considerable length, and Mrs. Brewer says it is necessary to cut them back every year to keep him from using them on other poultry.

Mean Mule Thought to Be a "Suicide"

HARRIETTA, Mich., Feb. 3.—Did Stephen Tazelaar's man-killing mule, "Mean Maud," commit suicide purposely or was she merely a victim of her own mean spirit?

"Mean Maud" has killed three men in the Wexford county lumber camps and she has maimed a dozen others who attempted to drive her. Several days ago she refused her keeper entrance to her stall. Feed that was thrown into her was kicked out or trampled it. After three days' fasting she tore loose and found the corn barrel. A bushel of grain in her famished condition proved too much. Tazelaar is inclined to the belief that the mule, disgusted with her wicked career, planned her own ignominious death.

MOTORIST MAKES STRENUOUS TRIP

Route Is Available, But Cannot Be Made Without Hardships.

The all-year round transcontinental touring route from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast is available, if motorists care to endure the hardships which such a trip entails in the winter season. Dan V. Creighton of Mobile, Ala., reached Los Angeles Wednesday, the first person to bring a car across since the winter storms set in.

The all-year-around route was pioneered by A. A. Westgard several years ago, but was considered feasible by motorists, and Creighton is one of the first to attempt the trip after the southern rains and western snows began to block the trail.

Despite the fact that the car was crowded to its utmost on the good roads, and fast time was made on the fine stretches, the party was more than a month making the trip, for which the motorist registered a little more than 1000 miles.

"You cannot imagine the relief of this last stretch from San Diego to Los Angeles," said Mr. Creighton on arriving at the Southern Chandler agency. "After more than 1000 miles of terrible going with only a few stretches of good roads, it was a veritable highway into the land of promise which greeted us at San Diego."

"When we started from Mobile in our Chandler Six we anticipated bad roads, and equipped the car accordingly, but we had no idea they would be as bad as they were. In Mississippi we encountered heavy rains, and one day we were more than ten hours and progressed only six miles. On the good stretches we averaged close to 200 miles a day, but the bad roads cut it down to an average of 100 miles a day for the trip."

"We had no mechanical trouble, the only difficulties being in the bad roads. Often the mud was so deep that the differential made a furrow in the road, and we were forced to travel in low gear for miles at a time. But at no time did the Chandler fail us. We have Alabama air in two of our tires."

"We equipped with Nobby Treads for the trip, and they did remarkable work. The two punctures were the only mishaps, and despite the rough treatment which one of the engines received, it is still making good."

"California will be the greater touring ground than ever this winter. I know several men of my own city who will ship their cars here. California's highway system and Southern California's county road system are becoming well known throughout the entire United States. There are no roads in America which rival those of California."

Senate Committee Considers Brandeis

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The Senate sub-committee considering the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis of Boston to the Supreme Court bench held its first meeting today and adjourned until Saturday after examining letters and telegrams approving and protesting against Mr. Brandeis' confirmation.

Senator Chilton, chairman of the sub-committee said nothing had been decided.

Innkeepers' Law Declared Unjust Judge Denounces Right of Arrest

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 3.—"No law on the statute books is more unjust than that which gives the landlord and innkeeper the opportunity to cast a stigma upon a person by having him arrested for debt," said Police Judge Henderson in dismissing the case of William C. Young, charged by F. A. Morrison, chief clerk at the Land Hotel, with defrauding an innkeeper.

The judge asserted that there is constant danger of making the police-court a collection agency, as a result of the tenacious efforts to swear out warrants for the arrest of guests who have departed without paying their bills. No other class of business people have a similar opportunity, he pointed out.

Young, who owed about $10 to the hotel, was taken to a day and night yesterday. Young, who had been in the hotel for a long time, was charged with defrauding the hotel. Young had severed his connection with a Stockton firm for which he worked.

Attorney S. Luko Howe, defending Young, pointed out that the man's baggage had been left in the hotel. The case was dismissed at the request of City Prosecutor Shelley.

Governor of Lower California to Report

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—Esteban Cantu, governor of Lower California, accompanied by Juan R. Platt, M. M. Mendez and A. Alondono Carranza commissioners arrived here today on a mission from Mexico to Ensenada, Lower California. The commissioners are preparing a report on conditions in Governor Cantu's territory to be forwarded to General Carranza.

The recent storm made roads south of the international boundary impassable and caused severe damage to many districts in Lower California, the visitors stated. In order to reach Ensenada, about 100 miles from Mexico, the four Mexican officials will have to travel nearly 400 miles by train and boat.

Sailors Smuggle Selves in Swimming

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—Seven Japanese sailors of the liner Mikai Maru, moored at pier 21, escaped from the vessel and swam ashore, some time last night. They are to be held by the police and immigration authorities. The seven are believed to be in hiding in the homes of some of their countrymen in the Oriental quarter.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon Gets Dates Mixed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Representative Joseph Cannon rose in the house today to taunt the Democrats about failing to observe Calendar Wednesday, one of the reforms inaugurated when he gave up the gavel. This is "Thursday," chorused a half dozen Democrats.

"So it is," conceded Uncle Joe, abashed, as he sat down.

NEGRO CONVICTS SAVED FROM DEATH

Three Hundred Prisoners Are Taken From Levee Surrounded by Water.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 3.—Three hundred negro convicts who were threatened with drowning for two days and three nights on the crumbling levees of the State Penitentiary at Cummins, were rescued today.

The situation at Gould is critical. Unless boats reach that city at once grave danger of life is feared.

Convicts were too strong to be braved by rowboats as surging through the streets of the town.

According to advices received at Helena today the levee at New Augusta on the White river went out last night, inundating a large section. With the crest of the Arkansas river flood in the crests of the levees today continued calls for relief from stricken and threatened villages are being received there.

The crest of the Arkansas is between Little Rock and Pine Bluff.

Screen Star Seen in De Mille Drama

Blanche Sweet, one of the most popular stars of the screen, made her debut at the Oakland Photo theater yesterday afternoon in another Lasky production, entitled "The Ragamuffin" by William C. de Mille. This popular star, who has gradually risen to the top of the photographic profession as an artist, the beauty and talent, is seen in a part in the elaborate production as a wife of the streets.

Replete with dramatic action, tense situations and exciting episodes, "The Ragamuffin" contains an earnest and carefully planned plan for universal life opportunity. It is one of America's leading dramatists. He has treated the subject of environment in a startling, original and dramatic manner. Jenny, as portrayed by Blanche Sweet, from a lowly beginning overcomes the greatest temptations in an inward struggle of reformation.

That Miss Sweet is more charming in this production, goes without saying and her millions of friends who have seen her in evening gowns and the latest fashions will be more than delighted with her as the cute little "lough" in this picture.

As the second feature of this big double program Marguerite Clayton is presented in "A Daughter of the City."

FOUR OVERCOME BY GAS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—Three Chinese are dying and one is very near death as a result of too much celebration of the Chinese New Year last night. While full of liquor they went to bed in a lodging house at 45 West alley, leaving the gas jet open.

They were found in a dying condition this morning. Lee Ben, Jeong Tang and Hung Ng Fong will die, and Foy Quan Ying has small chance for recovery.

DEPERN ESCAPE.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—Two lepers, Peter C. and M. Gutierrez, escaped early today from the Los Angeles County Isolation Hospital after severely beating two trustees, lepers, who were on guard duty. Sheriff John C. Cline detailed a posse of deputies to search for the men and also telephoned to the authorities in nearby places to keep a lookout for them.

EMPLOYEES TO DINE.

Employees and officers of the Maxwell Hardware Company of this city will gather at the Hotel Oakland tonight for a banquet tendered by the firm to its employees. Addresses will be made by employees and officers, the entire working force of the company to be present.

Australian Featherweight's Debut Against Malone Is Fiasco

DUNLEAVY FAILS TO SHOW ENOUGH BACK, BEARS START TO KEEP WARM BASEBALL WORK

Alveris and Jimmy Fox Put Up a Gallant Battle in Special Event.

Prospects at Berkeley for Winning Team Are None Too Rosy.

Jack Dunleavy, highly-touted Australian featherweight, who last night lost a very tough battle to the local champion, Jimmy Fox, in a special event, was not a success in his debut. Speeders Must Pay Costs of Appeals

Persons arrested for violation of the county speed laws and subsequently fined in the county justice courts who feel that they have been mulcted and appeal to the superior court will have to pay all of the expenses of the appeal.

Superior Judge F. B. Ogden has sentenced L. V. Blake to pay $62.50 partial costs of his trial before a jury in the superior court yesterday.

Blake was convicted by a jury in the superior court of John G. Matton Jr. at Centerville recently and he appealed from a fine of $50.

Judge Ogden, in imposing the penalty, stated that he would be considered in the case of Blake, as it is a precedent, but that hereafter the total costs of the trial would have to be borne by the defendant.

In the case of Blake the county was put to an extra expense of $125, but the entire amount was not assessed against him.

Attorney James Boyer, representing the defendant, declared during the trial that the county speed officers "are vultures and beasts of prey."

The whole system is extortion and blackmail made to extract money from citizens unfortunate enough to go out into the country in autos," he said.

Deputy District Attorney Myron Harris, who prosecuted the case, took

Produce Man Is a Divorce Defendant

John E. Perati, a wealthy produce merchant, has been sued for divorce by his wife, Marguerite T. Perati, who alleges cruelty. The couple were married in 1912 and have one child. Mrs. Perati sets forth in her complaint that her husband had threatened to kill her and had accused her of taking money from his pockets. She says that the defendant has an income of $500 per month and asks for her share of the community property.

Mrs. Hazel Fillmore wants a divorce from B. N. Fillmore on the grounds of alleged desertion.

Insanity Trials to Be Held in Hospital

Examination of persons alleged to be insane will hereafter be held in the Emergency Hospital, arrangements having been completed whereby the court will sit at the hospital instead of making it necessary for the patients to be taken to the courthouse. The spectacle of waving persons being led across Broadway has in the past been commented upon from different sources.

HE SAVES GOLF; WANTS UNIFORM

So Murphy Calls on Supervisor to Dress Big Star.

The county infirmary has its own special policeman. He has a home-made club and a humane officer's star. But he isn't a real police force—for he has no uniform.

This is the complaint of Dennis Murphy, policeman at the infirmary. He said that all D. J. Murphy of the board of supervisors has been asked by Dennis, as a conscientious policeman, to help the infirmary's police force out of his dilemma. Dennis the policeman wrote this to Daniel the supervisor.

"Hon. D. J. Murphy—
"My Dear Sir: I wish to inform you of a very serious accident which happened to one of the calves in the barn last week. The animal was found in a congested state between two halves of hay. It had not been for the value of the assistance rendered by myself and a few inmates this valuable calf would certainly have met a tragic death. I want to again impress on your mind the service that I am rendering this hospital as a full and qualified police officer, as the night man is no use at all and all the responsibilities of this institution as a police officer are all falling on the shoulders of the inmates. I want you to send me at your earliest convenience a police officer's uniform and a club and all the trimmings that go to fulfill the duties of a man in my official position."

"I have a big star, so don't send any. Send a lock coat with four brass buttons on the rear of it. As I am a policeman I possess a superb figure, send a 27 inch and a light fitting pair of trousers. This is the third time I have written you pertaining said uniform and I hope you will give this matter your earliest attention and consideration."

"I remain affectionately,
"DENNIS MURPHY,"
"Special Officer,"
"County Infirmary."

Local Music Lovers Hear Alice Nielsen

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—Alice Nielsen, California singer, appeared last night before San Francisco music lovers with the La Scala Opera Company, now appearing in this city. The famous singer scored a decided hit in the role of Gilda in "Rigoletto." The number of friends from both sides of the bay.

Miss Nielsen first reaped into fame as a contralto star, later forsaking this for grand opera. Her last appearance in California was when she and Florence Constantino appeared in operatic repertoire. Following this tour she went to Europe, where she scored a brilliant success.

The presentation of the opera at the Cort Theater last night proved artistic in the extreme. Giuseppe Verdi's "Rigoletto" was heard as the festive. Ernest Albertini sang Montezuma. Orlino Lombardi was heard as Sparafucile.

Bullet Follows in Wake of Domestic Upset

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—Victor Devine, 32 years old, is in a critical condition at the Central Emergency Hospital as a result of an encounter last night. Press charges that Devine is responsible for his domestic troubles, and a separation between himself and his wife and four children. When he sent the latter a summons to meet him last night Devine carried himself with a revolver. In a dispute in front of the Richelieu Hotel, 1128 Howard street, Devine fired two shots at Freese. One bullet struck him in the left side of the head and the other penetrated his shoulder. It was said today that he had about an even chance of recovery. Freese charged that his family had been influenced by Devine, who lives at the Richelieu Hotel, where they also reside.

Teachers to Hear of Vocational Training

"California" will be the general topic of the coming convention of the teachers of the California Teachers' Association, to be held April 17-20. This was announced today by President A. J. Cloud following the completion of arrangements by the committees for many of the special events. California topics will be the order of the day throughout.

Special attention will be paid to the sections on agriculture and vocational training.

The speakers for the general sessions are now being chosen. A. J. Cloud of San Francisco will preside at the general sessions. L. L. Glasscock of San Mateo will be official secretary. The directors of the association are Geo. W. Frick, C. W. Mark, Chas. L. Hedenburch, Minnie Coulter, P. M. Fisher, D. J. Jones, A. J. Cloud, G. E. Furbush, C. M. Osenbaugh.

Civic Club Will Hear Professor and Official

Prof. Frederick C. Mills of the department of economics at the University of California and Commissioner F. F. Jackson will be the speakers at a meeting of the Piedmont Civic club to begin at 8:30 o'clock Friday afternoon in the Piedmont gymnasium. Prof. Mills will talk on "Unemployment," while Commissioner Jackson will describe the affairs of his department of the city government.

Most of the upper class students at the school will attend the session which is also open to the public. Mrs. John Valance will conduct a business meeting preceding the address.

Two Men Victims of Deadly Gas Fumes

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—The victims of an accident or a suicide plot, George Johnson and James Meisner, mechanics, 40 years old, were found dead in a room at 236 Commercial street this morning. Both men had retired when the odor of fumes was detected and the door forced, it was found that they were beyond medical aid. An ambulance was summoned but they were pronounced dead at the Central Emergency hospital.

Mills Graduates Hear Sociological Lecture

Dr. Marina Bertola was the guest of honor and speaker this afternoon at a meeting of the Mills Club of Alameda county at the home of Mrs. Francis Perrier in Fulton street, Berkeley. Her topic was "Social Conditions: Recognized and Unrecognized."

Mrs. William M. Freund, head of the committee of Mills Club graduates, presided.

"Fatty" Arbuckle Is Adrift At Franklin

ROSCE ARBUCKLE

Two hundred and eighty-five pounds of fun and frolic are concentrated in Roscoe Arbuckle, who is appearing with pretty Mabel Normand at the Franklin in "Fatty and Mabel Adrift."

A triangle-keystone comedy, Fatty Arbuckle started out life in 1887 in Smith County, Kansas. His initial weighing showed a hundred pounds to his credit and he has been acquiring avoidable pounds ever since. He began his stage career with a hypnotist and made such a hit as a comical subject that he yielded to the glamour of the stage.

He sang illustrated songs and then added comedy effects and make-up. It finally ended in a clowning act. His first hit was in musical comedy. During an engagement with the Morris Harmon Opera Company in Oakland in 1905 he married Minta Durfee, a member of the company. Miss Durfee (Mrs. Arbuckle) appeared at the Franklin the first part of this week as the wife of Sam Bernard in "The Great Train Robbery."

In 1912 Arbuckle joined the Keystone company as an extra man or "sucker" at $3.00 a day. His natural fun-making abilities and beaming countenance soon brought him to the attention of the public and at present he is one of the most popular comedians on the silent stage, as well as occupying the position of first assistant to Mack Sennett, the originator of the Keystone comedies.

In producing "Fatty and Mabel Adrift" Arbuckle secured many beautiful film effects on a stormy sea. These scenes are perhaps the most successful attempts at after-dark photography ever exhibited on a screen. He spent many days and nearly two miles of film in the task, but the results are well worth the expense. The big scene of the picture, which shows a frame cottage being washed to sea in a storm, was secured only after several difficulties had been surmounted. It provides something amusing and interesting and furnishes the most humorous kind of entertainment.

"Fatty and Mabel Adrift" is one of the best comedies the Triangle-Keystone has yet released. It will be shown again today, tomorrow and Saturday. On the same bill, William Mack is appearing in "The Corner," a powerful production from Thos. L. Rice's studios.

"Live Your Religion" to Be Appeal to Men

"Practical religion" will be discussed at a "men's missionary convention" to be held under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association in the First Congregational Church in San Francisco, February 24, 25 and 26. It is expected that 3000 business men will attend, many of them from this side of the bay. Fifteen speakers are to be sent from New York City to address the meetings.

Similar meetings are to be held in all the large cities of the country at the same time. Through talks and the showing of lantern slides, it is hoped to demonstrate to great crowds of American business men that they will be better off financially if they otherwise if they keep their Sunday religion for use throughout the week.

Headquarters for the convention, which none but laymen will be permitted to attend, have been opened at the San Francisco Y. M. C. A. They are in charge Secretary J. C. Freeman, who was brought in the Panama canal zone, in the presence of the United States War Department. A feature of the convention will be that no subscription or collection will be asked or taken from any of the delegates.

Auditor at Napa Asks for Delay

NAPA, Feb. 3.—Camillus Smith, recently appointed county auditor after the separation of the offices of auditor and recorder, held by H. L. Gunn, made a formal demand upon Gunn for possession of the auditor's books, records and office. Gunn, who has refused to give up the office, asked for several days' time which to consult an attorney. The request was granted.

STOMACH TROUBLES DUE TO ACIDITY

So-called stomach trouble, such as indigestion, flatulence, stomach-ache and inability to retain food, are in reality cases out of ten simply acidity, acid is taking place in the food contents of the stomach, causing the food contents to ferment. This fermentation produces a gas which irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the stomach. The trouble lies in the fermentation of food. Such a condition is temporary and may be corrected. To stop or prevent the fermentation of food contents of the stomach and to harmonize the acid and render it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bismuth Magnesia, perhaps the best and most effective corrector of acid stomach known, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of water, or cold water immediately after each meal. This stops the fermentation, neutralizes the acid, and relieves the stomach. It stops the fermentation, and prevents the formation of gas, and thus enables the stomach to do its work properly without being hindered by gas and excessive acidity.

TERRIFIC STORM GRIPS NORTHWEST

Unprecedented Snowfall Blocks Traffic and Keeps Men From Homes.

SEATTLE, Feb. 3.—The Pacific northwest today again faced the task of battling with an almost unprecedented snowstorm which has paralyzed rail communication, completely disorganized city life, held residents in outlying sections snowbound and caused many thousands of dollars' damage to buildings which were not strong enough to withstand the weight of more than two and a half feet of snow on the roofs. With continued cold weather and more snow in prospect the outlook was not promising for early resumption of normal conditions.

All the northern trans-continental railroads were tied up by snow in the mountain passes. Railroad officials have abandoned hope of restoring the blockade until the storm ends. Portland was virtually cut off from wire communication with the outside world by a sheet storm.

In Seattle, Portland and other cities, street car lines are completely blocked by snow. Schools are closed, public gatherings set for this week have been postponed and business is practically suspended awaiting the end of the storm and the clearing of the streets.

The greatest single loss from the storm occurred in Seattle where the domes of St. James Catholic cathedral collapsed under the weight of snow yesterday, causing damage to the edifice of $25,000. Several loss substantial buildings also collapsed under the snow.

A barn on the ranch of Charles F. Manning of Everett collapsed yesterday and twenty-three blooded Shetland and Welsh ponies were killed. Many buildings in Everett were damaged by collapsing roofs.

In the Gray's Harbor region much damage has been done by wind, snow and cold. More than 150 cattle have died in Chablis county as a result of the blizzard.

Hotels in the large cities are reaping a harvest from men who have been unable to get to their homes because of the snow-blocked streets.

Inspection of St. James' Catholic Cathedral, whose dome fell under the weight of snow yesterday, shows that some of the walls are cracked. The loss now is estimated at $100,000. No one was injured in the cathedral. It is believed. The church and its decorations and equipment cost $1,200,000.

The street car companies expect to resume operation of their trolley lines tomorrow night. Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Oregon and Washington trains are moving irregularly between Seattle and Portland. Great Northern and Northern Pacific trains departed for Vancouver but no trains arrived from the north.

SHIP FLOATS OFF BAR

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 3.—The Canadian Pacific coasting steamer Princess Maquinna, which struck on Maude Island, Seymour Narrows, during a snowstorm Tuesday and was beached in Alameda Bay, freed herself without assistance yesterday and proceeded on her voyage to Vancouver, where she arrived last night, practically undamaged.

WATER IN TRENCHES

KIEV, Russia, Feb. 3.—Prisoners arriving here report that all roads in the region of the Dnieper are under water because of the thaw and that the water in the trenches is knee deep. The river has overflowed, compelling Russian troops to evacuate strongly fortified positions.

Blockaded

Every Household in Oakland Should Know How to Resist It.

If your back aches because the kidneys are blocked, you should help the kidneys with their work.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for weak kidneys. Recommended by thousands—home testimony proves their merit.

Mrs. Fred Petersen, 1733 Thirty-fifth Ave., Oakland, says: "For a long time I had been troubled by pain in my back. If I bent over, I had to straighten up by degrees and put my hand to my back for support. My kidneys were so weak that they caused me much annoyance, especially at night. I had headaches and dizzy spells and was in poor health. I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they restored me to good health. I have been well ever since."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply take for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Petersen had. Foster-McBirney Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

Washing Won't Rid Head of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—Advertisement.
